High Priced Little Sabine.
Can't Convict $1,000,000.
15,000,000 Years Apart.
Rome's Birthday.

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

A SMALL BUST of a little girl, made by Houdon, the child's father, used to stand in Judge Gary's small room, off the hall, in his Fifth ave. house. It lived there with some furniture, covered with Aubusson Tapestry, for which Gary paid a fortune to Alavcine.

On Saturday the little Houdon girl sold at auction for $245,000. Prices paid in America depend not on value, but on the ease with which $245,000 can be acquired.

Houdon's little girl was named Sabine, in honor, presumably, of ladies carried away by Roman soldiers. Now little Sabine is carried away by American dollars.

Mr. Nye, chairman of the oil committee, investigating bribery, says, following Mr. Sinclair's acquittal, "You can't convict a million dollars in this country."

It needs no ghost come from the grave to tell you that. Power creates the laws and is above them. Power, just now is organized money.

However, every man is bound to recognize a legal decision as final, and putting aside generalizations about millionaires, to remember that Mr. Sinclair is acquitted by a jury, convinced that no evidence was presented, sufficient to convict.

The Rev. Dr. Straton wants to argue evolution with Mr. Osborn, head of the Museum of Natural History. Mr. Osborn believes that man developed on earth, like other animals, through millions of years of evolution.

Dr. Straton says all living things, also the earth, sun, moon, stars, comets, clouds, oceans, etc., were created in one week, by the Will and Power of God. He had existed from all eternity, when He decided, about six thousand years ago, to create this earth, with man in His image, sun, moon, stars, etc., to light the earth for man.

Dr. Straton says man was made from red earth in a few minutes. He looked lonesome, in Eden, so a deep sleep was put upon him, one of his ribs removed, first surgical operation on record, and Eve was made from that rib.

For centuries clergymen taught that man had one more rib on one side than the other. Somebody counted the ribs of 1200 male skeletons and the odd rib theory was dropped.

The clergyman and scientist, debating, would find it hard to agree on any starting point. Mr. Osborn says our Pithecanthropoid or monkeyman ancestors left their life in trees, about 15,000,000 years ago, and started life in the open. To that the Rev. Dr. Straton could only reply: "You're a liar," and add, "See what is written in this book of Genesis." You could not call that a "debate."

On Saturday Rome celebrated its 2681st birthday. And Rome today is as energetic, powerful and intensely earnest as at any time in the past 2681 years.

Marvelous are the Italian people, with their tireless leader, Mussolini. For more than 25 centuries they have contributed great men to the world, some among them greatest in the world.

Mussolini celebrates this happy

ZEO SAYS HE GOT NO PAY

Before the Legislative Committee investigating Arthur K. Reading's conduct in office, Vincent J. Zeo, assistant attorney general, testified today that he also did some work for the Decimo Club.

Asked who else worked for the club, he replied: "Mr. Lewis (another assistant) I believe, but I can't testify for him."

Zeo maintained in the face of a rigid examination in which counsel and committee members participated, that most of the work he did was done outside the office of attorney general.

It was undertaken, he admitted, at Atty.-Gen. Reading's request and constituted a study of corporation law. He never received any pay for this work, he said, neither from Decimo Club nor from Reading.

Zeo was questioned exhaustively regarding two trips whilh he made to New York, on each of which he met Joseph D. Webster, former vice-president and treasurer of Decimo

TOBACCO STOCKS DROP IN CIGARET PRICE WAR

New York, April 23 (AP)—A cigarette price war, having as its first effect reduction of the retail prices of three leading grands to the level of two packages for 25 cents, broke out today. Wholesale prices to dealers were reduced to $6 a thousand from about $6.40 by three of the largest companies.

Prices of tobacco company stocks broke $3 to $12 a share before rallying on the New York Stock Exchange, with American Tobacco "B" leading the decline.

Reynolds Tobacco B showed a loss of $3 a share and American Tobacco dropped $9 and the B issue was cut $6.75.

Blocks of Tobacca stocks ranging from 10,000 to 15,000 shares were thrown on the market.

FORD RELIEF PLANE AT GREENLY; BREMEN CREW TO SPEED UP REPAIRS

Montreal, April 23 (By the Canadian Press)—The Ford relief plane carrying spare parts to the marooned transatlantic monoplane Bremen landed on Greenly Island at 11:40 a. m., Eastern standard time, today, the Marconi company here announced.

The relief plane, piloted by Bernt Balchen and Maj. James Fitzmaurice, Irish member of the Bremen's crew, left Seven Islands, almost 500 miles away from Greenly Island, at 5:10 o'clock this morning.

The relief ship left Detroit Friday morning and reached Lake St. Agnes in one hop, 800 miles, in about nine hours. Floyd Bennett, in charge of the expedition, fell ill there of pneumonia and had to be taken to a hospital in Quebec. Balchen pushed on yesterday to Seven Islands and made an early and its reactions upon myself as the passenger of Koehl and Fitzmaurice.

I have told the extreme kindness of the Irish people and of the hospitality of the Emerald Island, which led us to invite Commandant Fitzmaurice to join us in our great adventure.

Today I shall continue with these observations, which occur to me from time to time as we wait here on Greenly Island for the return of our Fitzmaurice from the outside world with our spare parts and benzol with which to continue the journey to New York.

One thing that has impressed me above all others in these past weeks has been the abounding friendship that has been showered upon us by people of every country wherever we have gone. The knowledge that, as we sit here on our ice-bound island home, just off the coast of Labrador, the United States has extended so warm a hand of welcome to us across the divide that separates us from our destination, New York, has been gratifying indeed.

From the President, from the highest officials of your country and from all sorts of cities throughout the United States, invitations and congratulations have poured in upon us, until we are literally overwhelmed with them.

PRAISES HIS HOST

Our good friend, Barrett, the wireless operator of Point Amour, has been at his key almost night and day since first the Bremen landed from the clouds above this island, receiving all these expressions of friendship and help that have come to us from every corner of your country and all countries.

The Canadian people, too, have inundated us with friendship, and poor Herr Barrett's task of receiving all these messages has been greatly increased by expressions of congratulations that continue to come to us from the distant reaches of the broad British dominion, on whose shores we have landed [illegible] er crossing the Atlantic from the shores of Ireland.

Where, I would ask, could one expect to feel so warm a handclasp of comradeship? From the moment when our wheels touched the ice of the lake here at Greenly we have been the honored guests of each person we have met. No sooner had we come from the skies to land, at a time when all hope seemed to be lost to us, than the hand of fellowship was extended to us.

Beginning with M. Letemplier, who attends to this lighthouse for the Canadian government and whose first thought was for our comfort, we were almost swamped with the goodness. Letemplier conducted us to his own humble abode, brought forward supplies from his larder, none too amply stocked, because there has been no supply ship to Greenly since last autumn and none can come for weeks yet.

Therefore the Letemplier larder is not equipped to stand these tremendous strains upon its provisions. But Letemplier gave of his precious hoard as though he was in Bremen or Dublin or New York and had only to telephone to the nearest provision merchant to bring new supplies of food by the next delivery.

GIVES THANKS TO AVIATORS

I would like Letemplier to know how deeply I appreciate everything that he has done out of the great kindness of his heart. To the people of the mainland who came across the ice from Long Point, or Blanc Sablon, I wish also to extend my thanks for what has been done for us by them. These people who live and earn their livelihood in the distant places of the world are amongst its finest citizens; open hearted, generous and hospitable in every way.

There has also been the work of aviators who have come to our aid and particularly the efforts of our friend, Schiller, who flew through the storms and fogs of this northern world to reach us and ascertain what could be done to help.

To "Duke" and Dr. Cuisinier who came with him, as well as to Thibault, the engineer who was passenger in that plane, we offer our thanks as well. They have been pre-eminently kind and courteous and brave in coming to our aid as they have the Exchange Telegraph, Scandinavian rights reserved)—Capt. George H. Wilkins started from Point Barrow, Alaska, on Sunday, April 15, at 10 o'clock in the morning, Alaskan time.

First Story of Wilkins and Eielson Flight Across North Polar Sea

The starting place had to be altered as the runway proved too short for the heavily-loaded machine, whose weight was 2022 pounds and whose cargo was about 4050 pounds, thus requiring a runway at least a mile and a quarter long.

DIFFICULTY IN HOPOFF.

The machine needed a speed of 50 miles an hour before it was able to rise. A new runway was covered with loose snow and this was trodden down for a width of only five feet so that exact steering was necessary to avoid a crash. The ice also had to be leveled.

Wilkins, during his flight, passed places where Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary had been. He sighted Grant Land and passed about 300 English miles south of the North Pole. The weather was fine with little fog.

Throughout the trip he maintained an average altitude of 1000 feet, but at times it was necessary to ascend to 3500 feet to get above the banks of clouds. He sighted no land that had not been discovered, and there were no signs of animal life on the ice.

Wilkins succeeded in taking observations 200 miles from Svalbard (Spitzbergen), but the visibility then became too bad. Approaching Svalbard the first sight of land was when he saw the two-pointed peaks of Prince Karl promontory.

FACED STORM PERIL.

A violent storm was raging at the time, and Capt. Wilkins had to make a hurried attempt to land. This was made exceedingly difficult and dangerous by sudden gusts of wind. But a landing eventually was made near a boat in the neighborhood of Dead Man's Island. The airplane came to a standstill after a run of about 30 feet in loose snow.

The airmen then had been flying 21 hours at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour.

For steering purposes Capt. Wilkins found the ordinary magnetic compass very useful and in addition used a sun compass.

He had been supplied with a special map of the polar region by the American Geographical Society, but was able only to get a very rough map of Spitzbergen.

Consequently the navigation of the plane was remarkable in view of its landing in Svalbard, only about five miles south of Kings Bay, the place originally decided upon and where Capt. Wilkins expected to meet the Italian explorer, Gen. Umberto Nobile.

HOPED TO MEET NOBILE.

The captain had planned to inform Gen. Nobile, who intends to fly his dirigible Italia over the North Pole, of his experiences in his own passage across the polar region and the route he had followed.

This would have helped Gen. Nobile in selecting his own route in areas where hitherto no aircraft had been flown.

Capt. Wilkins and Lieut. Eielson were held up more than five days on Dead Man's Island by a storm of unusual severity for this time of the year.

Snow was falling almost continuously and the high wind continuously changed its direction. The thermometer registered 45 degrees below zero and the two airmen could do nothing while marooned on the island.

They had to spend their time in the plane for the sake of its warmth. Their food supply, consisting of pemmican, biscuits, malted milk and chocolate, was sufficient for six months, and they had some cigarettes.

For the five days the airmen were able to rest after their long journey in preparation for the arduous task of digging their machine out of the snow as soon as they should be able to resume the flight. The small quantity of gasoline remaining also had to be pumped into the upper tanks.

NEW START SATURDAY.

On Saturday morning at 3 o'clock they decided that conditions were good for getting off again. On two occasions the motor started at full speed, but the machine did not move. At the third attempt Capt. Wilkins got out of the cockpit and holding on to a rope attached to the plane pushed the machine to give it the necessary impetus to rise.

In this way they succeeded in starting, but to the pilot it seemed a long time before he heard Wilkins' voice yelling: "On board again."

It had been arranged that if Capt. Wilkins was unable to clamber into the machine Eielson was to proceed and obtain assistance.

In case of such eventuality, the captain had provided himself with a tent and food.

There was great risk in addition that in falling back on the snow Capt. Wilkins might cripple himself had he failed to gain a secure hold or to clamber back into the machine.

The plane got off successfully and when the height of 1000 feet was reached, Barentzburg was sighted and the mast of the wireless station could be seen.

WILKINS' HOP ELIMINATES 5 'DISCOVERIES'

New York, April 23 (AP)—Five reported or imagined masses of land have been eliminated from the maps by the flight of Capt. George H. Wilkins and Lieut. Carl B. Eielson over the roof of the world.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Wilkins' former chief, after considering data received by radio, noted today that on the flight from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Green Bay, Spitzbergen, over the polar basin, Wilkins and Eielson failed to see Keenan Land, Harris Land, the land which Dr. Frederick A. Cook reported in his tale of a visit to the North Pole; that reported by Admiral Peary and that which Stefansson thought he had just missed finding in 1917.

Keenan Land was reported more than half a century ago by a New England whaling captain, who thought he had seen mountains a hundred miles north of his ship's location.

Harris Land was deduced by the late Dr. R. A. Harris of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, from tidal observations, as an island of almost continental size, but it was never reported as having been sighted.

"Deadman's" Spots Are Many in and Near Spitzbergen

Washington, April 23 (AP)—The grim name "Deadman" appears over and over again on maps of the country in which Capt. Wilkins and Lieut. Eielson landed near Spitzbergen.

The National Geographic Society commented today on the fact that Wilkins flew 250 miles south after reaching the northwestern corner of Spitzbergen, and in doing so broke away from all precedents in handling aircraft to and from "this most popular island base for polar flights."

The landing point of Wilkins and Eielson, described as "Deadman's Island, just north of ice fjord," lies 125 miles south of King's Bay, where Byrd and Bennett and Amundsen and Ellsworth began their successful flights, the society said.

In this section of the world one finds such names prevailing as "Deadman's Spit," "Deadman's Island" and "Deadman's Mountain."

Northward 250 miles from where Wilkins landed is the original "Deadman's Island," where the Dutch maintained the famous "Blubbertown," and where thousands died violent deaths or wasted away with scurvy in the old whaling days. This "Deadman's" is not to be confused with the landing place of Wilkins.

A home is man's greatest asset! Do you own yours? If not, now is the time to buy. You'll find scores of sound values listed today in the real estate columns of the Classified Ads.

Says Wilkins' Next Big Flight Will Be Over Antarctic

Los Angeles, April 23 (AP)—The Los Angeles Examiner, in a copyrighted article today, says the next great flight of Capt. George H. Wilkins will be a trip over the uncharted wastes of the Antarctic regions.

The article says J. K. Northrop, aeronautical engineer, and a few of his associates today disclosed that Wilkins had told them of his plans and needs for his contemplated flight over the southern Polar regions in case he was successful in his hop over the other end of the globe.

flats near the army base at low tide.

After recovering what these two men picked out of the mud, Inspectors Augusta, Dorsey and Connolly of headquarters and Capt. Murphy of Athens st. division, faced the task of finding a dozen other drifting longshoremen who dug other costly bracelets out of the slime.

OVERLOOKED JEWELS.

In addition to this part of the stolen jewelry, the greater part is still believed to be in the hands of the thieves who took a New York salesman's trunk from the station.

It is believed that in looting the trunk the thieves overlooked the two bottom drawers which contained diamond, ruby and emerald bracelets and wrist watches. They are believed to have thrown the supposedly empty trunk in the harbor.

Although the contents of the two drawers apparently spilled out on the harbor bottom, the trunk itself has not been found.

The value of $100,000 was placed on the stolen jewelry today when police heard from the New York concern represented by the robbed salesman, Milton B. Eltinge. Previously the value was given at $50,000. Police were notified the gems were insured for twice that sum.

PICK HOOVER AND SMITH TO WIN EASILY

With interest greater than ever because of the new primary law, which permits the voters to express directly their choices for party nominees, and because of Governor Fuller's pronouncement in favor of Herbert Hoover, Massachusetts voters cast their ballots tomorrow in the presidential primary.

The polls will be open in Boston from 6 a. m. to 4 p. m., and early closings are the rule in most of the cities and towns of the State.

While triumphs for Hoover and Smith, in their respective parties, are expected in the Bay State, spirited contests are due in some other States in balloting tomorrow and national interest centers on Ohio where Hoover will fight it out with supporters of Lowden, Dawes and others.

Before this week is ended the great majority of the delegates to each convention will have been named. Nine States and two territories will hold primaries or conventions to designate delegates this week.

Hoover is leading Lowden by a good margin in the delegates already chosen, but his first real test of strength is in the Ohio primary tomorrow. Since the death of Senator Willis, delegates pledged to him have indicated they would support Lowden, Dawes, Coolidge, Curtis and others.

Supporters of Gov "Al" Smith in Massachusetts expect that all 36 of the Democratic delegates to be elected here tomorrow will be for their candidate. Hoover's friends count on a majority of the 39 Republican delegates. The choice of

SMITH CHEERED AS HE STARTS FOR NORTH

Asheville, N. C., April 23 (INS)—Speeding northward today to spend the remainder of his vacation on the seashore, Governor Al Smith of New York left behind him perhaps the largest crowd ever gathered in North Carolina to bid a visitor farewell.

When the Governor's train left here yesterday afternoon for New Jersey it was estimated that more than 10,000 persons, some of them from adjoining states, jammed around the Biltmore station, yelling "We're for you, Al."

Before leaving Governor Smith told the Ashevillians that the "much talked of Southern hospitality has exceeded my fondest expectations."

At Hickory, N. C., Governor Smith stepped out on the platform and greeted a crowd of several thousand. Again at Salisbury, N. C., a crowd of 5000 cheered him.

N. Y. CITY MUST PAY ITS MEN PREVAILING RATES

Washington, Apl. 23. (INS)—The Supreme Court today formally dismissed the appeal of the city of New York from State court decisions holding constitutional the State Labor law providing that mechanics should be paid as much for public work as the prevailing wage for similar private employment.

The city appealed after Frank Campbell, bridge painter and 212 others, won judgments of $698.35 each in State courts.

WALKING FROM NEWPORT TO BOSTON

Tiring of the more comparative stroll of 44 miles from Providence to Boston, which course she twice covered, each time bettering her record, Miss Eleonora Sears, Boston society sportswoman, today started a hike from Newport, R. I., to the Hub.

The distance is 73 miles and when she started over the long trail northward, Miss Sears said she hoped to heel-and-toe the distance in 20 hours or better.

This would bring her into Boston at 1:45 a. m. tomorrow, the start from Newport being clocked as 5:45 a. m.

The sportswoman said her course would be through Fall River, Taunton and Stoughton and she predicted she would set up a new record for 73 miles.

Miss Sears' first hike up from Providence was made in December, 1925, as the result of a wager, the terms of which never were revealed.

She covered the distance in 11 hours 8 minutes and was accompanied by Roger Cutler and Albert Hinckley.

In the following November, Miss Sears and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, internationally-known tennis star, accomplished the same hike in 9 hours 53 minutes, bettering Elonora's previous tme by 34 minutes.

They failed, however, to equal the record of 9 hours 29 minutes, which had been set two months earlier by Miss Jean Bassis, an Attleboro girl.

COOLIDGE FIRM ON FLOOD BILL

Washington, April 23 (AP)—Summoned to the White House for another conference on Mississippi flood control, Chairman Madden of the House appropriations committee declared today upon leaving that President Coolidge has made all the concessions he intends to offer to supporters of the Jones Senate bill.

Madden had scarcely left the White House when Chairman Reid of the House flood control committee announced that his committee had decided to accede in part to the President. Among the amendments which Reid said the committee would sponsor on the House floor will be:

A provision to place upon the states instead of the federal government the costs of furnishing the rights of way for levees on the main stem of the Mississippi river from Cape Girardeau, Mo., to the Gulf of Mexico.

In view, however, of Madden's announcement which appeared to amount to a White House ultimatum, there was no prospect yet of an agreement between the President and the House because the amendments agreed to by Chairman Reid fall far short of Mr. Coolidge's wishes.

SINCLAIR JUROR IN HURRY TO WED NOW

Washington, April 23 (AP)—It was a case of absence makes the heart grow fonder with Roy R. Shockey, 26, one of the youngest members of the jury which acquitted Harry F. Sinclair Saturday. Locked up in the jury room away from his fiancee, Miss Jeanette Mary Lyon, 21, Shockey lost no time today in getting to the court house for a marriage license. Shockey is a senior at the Georgetown University Law School.

26TH DIVISION DOCTOR DIES AFTER OPERATION

Rutland, Vt., April 23 (AP)—Dr. Ray E. Smith, 45, for 20 years a prominent physician and surgeon in this city, died at the Rutland Hospital of heart failure, although he had been confined to the hospital since March 6 when he underwent a serious surgical operation.

8 YEARS FOR STABBER IN VERMONT ALCOHOL CASE

Burlington, Vt., April 23 (AP)—Balassau Magaletta, who pleaded guilty last week to assault with intent to kill Milton Hayward, was sentenced by Judge Cowles today to five to eight years in State's Prison at Windsor.

N. E. MAY GET 5 MORE RADIO STATIONS

Washington, April 23 (AP)—A reallocation of radio stations with the ultimate elimination of 141 was suggested in a statement prepared for submission to the Federal Radio Commission by the National Association of Broadcasters, Federated Radio Trade Association and the Radio Manufacturers' Association today.

Any plan contemplating an increase in the number of stations should not be considered, the three associations, representing those who broadcast and those who manufacture and sell radio equipment, maintained.

Two procedures are explained in the proposal, one calling for 110 stations in each of the five zones, and the other 140 stations.

Under the "borrowing" provision of the law, permitting the transfer of licenses between zones, the proposal outlines a method of giving each zone 140 licenses. Zone 1, New England and North Atlantic states together with the Virgin Islands and Porto Rico, would "borrow" five licenses to make its total 141.

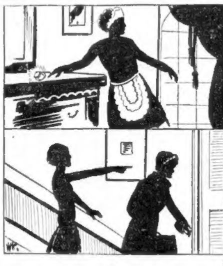
How Film Star $100,000 Kidnapers Were Foiled



THEFT OF RING

The kidnaping plot against Dolores Del Rio began with the larceny of the star's $15,000 diamond ring, for which Rosa Ayala, her maid, was discharged. Details, the Los Angeles police say, were given by Gustavo Carillo, one of two men arrested with the maid. The other's name is withheld.

CALL SINCLAIR FOR GRILL ON OIL BONDS

Washington, April 23 (AP)—Harry F. Sinclair was summoned today to appear before the Senate Teapot Dome committee for questioning about the Continental Trading Company Liberty bonds profits.

The subpoena was issued within 48 hours after the acquittal of the wealthy oil operator by a District of Columbia jury on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve lease.

Sinclair, with his family, is taking a vacation on his Rancocas farms in New Jersey, having proceeded there yesterday after the verdict of not guilty.

"What is Sinclair to be questioned about?" Senator Walsh, Montana, committee prosecutor, was asked.

"Well, it is assumed that he knows something about the Continental Trading Company bonds," was the reply.

The Senator explained that Sinclair was assumed to have received a fourth part of the $3,050,000 profits of the Continental, whereas thus far the committee had traced only about $500,000 of the $750,000 share which it was assumed the oil operator received.

"I do not think he will claim immunity now," observed the Senator with a smile.

HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER INJURES TWO MEN

Southbridge, April 23—Two Southbridge men, Frank Tick, 32, and Chester Maska, 24, both of 379 East Main st., sustained severe cuts and bruises and possible internal injuries as the result of being struck by a "hit-and-run" driver on the Sandersvale rd. The two claim that the automobile came up from behind them and bowled them over.

CAMBRIDGE [illegible] IS INJURED IN CRASH

William Fitz[illegible], 24, of 340 Walden st., [illegible]bridge, received contusions of [illegible] back when his motor car was in collision with a machine owned by William J. Barry, and [illegible] by his son, Arthur J. Ba[illegible]oth of 54 Burroughs st., Ja[illegible] Plain.

FORMER PUPIL ADMITS HOLDING UP TEACHER

[illegible]oke, April 23—Edward Beau[illegible], 55 Northbridge st., a violin teacher, was locking up his music studio at 331 Main st. when a masked man stepped into the hall and ordered him to throw up his hands, at the same time pressing a revolver against his ribs.

Beauregard thought some friend was playing a joke on him and inquired if his visitor were kidding. For reply the holdup man gave the revolver extra pressure against Beauregard's body with the result that the music teacher handed over $15. Police arrested Wilfred Malbouf, 18, of 594 Main st., a former violin pupil of Beauregard. He confessed, police say.

1 KILLED AND 2 HURT IN AUTO CRASHES

One man is dead and two others seriously injured today, two of them victims of hit-and-run drivers who are being sought by the police.

The dead man, as yet unidentified, was killed near the Point of Pines station of the Narrow Gauge road

John Foley, 40, of West Sixth st., South Boston, sustained a possible fractured skull when struck by a taxi operated by Francis J. O'Brien at West Broadway and C st. O'Brien took him to Carney Hospital.

Timothy Callahan of 114 Maple st., Melrose was run down near Gladstone st., Everett, on the parkway. He was found lying on the crowded parkway by John Wiggin of West Brookfield who notified Patrolman John Gannon of the Everett police, a traffic officer stationed nearby.

A car following Wiggin's driven by Albert B. Harmon of Pitney st., Somerville pulled into the curb to assist the man and meanwhile another car following was seen to pass over the body without touching it.

The man killed was about 60 years old. He was found by Charles Tiezey of Goodrich st., Lynn and Harold Varney of Clarendon ave., Lynn, who was passing near the Point of Pines station.

DEL RIO KIDNAP PLOT BARED

officers say was discharged by Miss Del Rio after a $15,000 diamond ring had disappeared. One of the men is Gustavo Carillo, 27, Mexican University graduate.

The name of the second man was withheald by the police. Three other men, two Mexicans and an Italian are being sought. All have police records and one is believed to be in custody in Arizona.

Details of the plot, officers said, were obtained from Carillo—who describes himself as the "fall guy" in the case.

The scheme was frustrated, Carillo told the officers, by the discharge and arrest of the maid as well as himself.

The diamond ring had disappeared shortly after New Year's Day, and, the police believe, the thieves attempted to market it below the border, one Mexican official making an offer of $5000 for it, which was refused.

Then the kidnaping scheme, according to the prisoner, was hatched by the Italian, a sweetheart of the maid. She was to have taken a fur coat belonging to the actress to be cleaned and Carillo was to return it in order to get past the front door, and make his way to Miss Del Rio's apartment.

There he said he was to force the actress to accompany him either by use of threats or drugs. She was to be taken to a house in Sonora town, the Mexican quarter, and if necessary below the border while the demand for $100,000 ransom was made on her father, J. J. Asunsulo, wealthy Mexico City banker, and the motion picture producers.

The plot was considered so seriously by the officers that Police Lieutenant Trosper accompanied Miss Del Rio recently when she went to Nogales, Sonora, Mexico, to file suit for a divorce from Jaime Del Rio.

POINCARE GAINS IN FRENCH VOTE

Paris, April 23 (AP)—A strong drift to Premier Poincare was indicated today to have taken place in the national election.

Of 179 Deputies elected on the first ballot, Poincare is sure of 130 and counted upon 13 others.

In 425 constituencies, no candidate received the majority necessary for election and a second vote will be taken next Sunday when the candidates with the highest pluralities will be declared elected.

Three Cabinet members failed to retain their seats and must go before the electorate again. They are: Paul Painleve, Andre Fallieres and Henri Queuille, Ministers of War, Labor and Agriculture. Their chances on the second ballot are regarded as good. Henry Franklin-Bouillon, radical socialist, was defeated.

Maurice Bokanowski, Minister of Commerce, was re-elected. This was a surprise, as one of the hardest campaigns had been made against him.

One American citizen retained his seat. He is Marquis De Chambrun, descendant of Lafayette, entitled to vote in America.

Transfusion No Tie or Wedlock Bar, Says Dr. Wilson

If you give your blood to a girl and then fall in love with her, don't be afraid the transfusion will bar your marrying her, Dr. Edmund W. Wilson, assistant superintendent of Boston City Hospital, advised today.

Dr. Wilson gave the assurance in characterizing as "nonsense" the statement of a noted surgeon, Prof. Fritz de Beule, in Ghent, Belgium, who objects to the marriage of a Belgian girl and youth because the man bound himself to her in a tie of consanguinity through giving his blood to save her life.

Dr. Wilson explained that blood given in transfusion merely serves as a "primer" to the patient's blood and that within a short period the "borrowed" blood is replaced by new blood.

JOIN CABLE TO RADIO, URGES HARBORD

Speaking before the business policy class of Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration today, Major-General James G. Harbord, retired, president of the Radio Corporation of America, said that the unification of cable and radio communication companies in England should be answered by a similar movement in this country if the United States is to meet Great Britain's challenge for supremacy in world communications.

General Harbord explained that to facilitate such a co-ordination of the American cable and radio companies both systems should be exempted from the operation of the anti-trust laws and their rates placed under government regulation.

"During the past few months," he said, "it has become apparent to the cable interests of Great Britain that the growing radio supremacy of the United States, and in particular the greater efficiency of the beam system of transmission as compared to the older cable method, has directly challenged the cable leadership of Great Britain.

"As a consequence of this trend the older country has recently taken steps to meet this challenge by bringing about a unification of cable and radio interests. This will undoubtedly strengthen the position of Great Britain both in times of war and peace, affording as it will, communication to every foreign port and principal city of the world."

Gen. Harbord has had a colorful career in the army. During the World War he commanded the Second Division in France for a time and later commanded the Services of Supply of the A. E. F.

threaded them underneath the tracks, allowing the trains to move again.

The fire destroyed the two-story wooden storage and baling building of the box factory and for a time threatened to spread to the main plant.

More than 200,000 ginger ale cases were stored in the building and there were several thousand bales of shavings and sawdust also, as well as the baling machinery.

John Harris and Walter Nugent, employes, discovered the blaze and notified Superintendent Taylor, who sounded an alarm. A second was sounded immediately upon arrival of the apparatus. Aid was sent also from Arlington and Malden.

Two Wakefield trains, due at Boston at 8:35 and 8:38, arrived at 9:16 and 9:19, respectively. The Dover train due at 8:42 pulled in at 9:22, and the Reading train due at 9:04 reached the Hub at 9:26.

Outbound, the 8:40 train for Dover and Intervale, was delayed in leaving until 9:06; the Portland train was held from 9, to 9:09, and the Lawrence train was delayed from 9:15, to 9:16.

AMERICANS TO FLEE CHINESE

Washington, April 23 (AP)—Fearing the collapse of the Shantung government before the Nationalist forces in their northward march to Peking, American Consul Webber at Chefoo has urged all Americans in the province to concentrate in Chefoo to prepare for evacuation.

Webber has recommended the despatch of naval vessels at once to Cheefoo, but his recommendation has not been acted upon. A Japanese warship is standing by and the British consul has also asked for naval protection for missionaries.

About 100 Americans are scattered throughout the Shantung province.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN AND CONSTIPATION

Thousands of people eat bran regularly for the healthful roughage it provides. It is a splendid practice. But be sure you are really getting all the roughage you need when you eat bran. Doctors say it takes 100% bran to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only accomplish part-way results. That is why they fail!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. Just two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

You'll like the flavor and crispness of ALL-BRAN. Serve with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Mix with other cereals. Sprinkle into soups. Use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

20 QUAKES KILL 30; OLD GREEK CITY IN RUINS

Athens, Greece, April 23 (AP)—At least 30 persons were killed and heavy damage was caused in a series of earthquakes which have been shaking central Greece during the last 24 hours. The heaviest damage was in the towns of Corinth and Lutraki.

More than 20 separate shocks, varying in strength, were felt over the Peloponesus.

Reports from Corinth stated that 20 persons were killed there and that the population, in terror, spent the whole night in the open. The power house was destroyed and the town was in darkness. There were possibilities of other casualties as a complete checkup was virtually impossible.

At least 80 per cent. of the houses in Corinth were destroyed and many of the remaining buildings were in a dangerous condition. The prison collapsed.

Members of the American school who have been excavating the city of old Corinth, which was destroyed by an earthquake in 1858 and lies three miles from the new city, are believed to be safe.

the voters, which must be written on the ballots, is not binding on the delegates.

The group slate of prominent Democrats for delegates-at-large is opposed by Mayor Quigley of Chelsea. The group consists of Sen. Walsh, former Mayors Curley and Peters, Gen. Cole, Joseph B. Ely, Mrs. Colin W. MacDonald and Dist.-Atty. Foley.

The Republican slate of seven is likewise opposed by one candidate—Frederick L. Anderson of Newton, an avowed Hoover candidate. The slate comprises William M. Butler, Sen. Gillett, former Gov. Cox, Eben S. Draper, Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, Mrs. Minnie R. Dwight and Mrs. Grace M. Bagley.

District contests are lively in several localities. In the Hub the contest attracting most attention is that of City Councillor Henry Parkman, Jr., against Charles H. Innes, in the 11th district. Innes' running mate is Walter R. Meins and Parkman's is G. Gordon Watt.

Pennsylvania and Alaska, as well as Ohio and Massachusetts, vote tomorrow. The 79 Republican and 76 Democratic delegates from Pennsylvania are expected to go uninstructed to the conventions, where they may play important parts in the final selections. Ohio's Democratic delegates, 48 in number, will be committed to ex-Sen. Atlee Pomerene.

SHAFT WHIRLS MAN TO DEATH

Jacob Kellar, 50, of Main st., Medford, was killed today when he was caught by a revolving shaft in the woodworking shop of Daniel Feinburg & Sons, 385 Albany st.

Kellar was whirled around the shaft more than 50 times before fellow workmen could shut down the machinery, and firemen found it necessary to cut six feet of the shaft away with acetylene torches to free the body.

Kellar was oiling machinery from the top of a stepleddar when his coat was caught by the shafting and his body was drawn in. The police of Station 5 were notified and Patrolman Nelson Copeland summoned the fire department.

BYRD TO SPEED NORTH TO SIDE OF BENNETT

Having missed the fast train to Quebec by a few minutes, Commander Richard E. Byrd today planned to leave tonight for the bedside of Floyd Bennett, second in command on the proposed flight to the South Pole.

Bennett, co-pilot with Bernt Balchen, another Byrd expedition flier, was stricken with pneumonia when the relief plane they were flying to Greenly Island to assist the transatlantic Bremen was caught in the ice at Murray Bay.

He was taken by airplane to Quebec, where at the Jeffrey Hale Hospital Bennett's illness was diagnosed and his condition said to be critical.

As soon as he learned of the illness of his associate and close friend, Commander Byrd cancelled all engagements and prepared to leave for Quebec. The train pulled out from the North Station, however, while he was racing across the city in a taxicab.

The famous Arctic and transatlantic flier was greatly worried over th dely in reaching the bedside of his friends, but decided to wait for tonight's train, rather than attempt to fly to Quebec under the present adverse weather conditions.

He was informed that Mrs. Bennett, herself just out of a sick bed, had left for Quebec, accompanied by New York specialists armed with oxygen tanks.

A year ago Bennett, whose presence on the South Pole trip is considered indispensable, was seriously injured when the plane which he and Byrd were testing for the transatlantic flight overturned. Byrd escaped, but Bennett spent several months in the hospital, being unable to accompany his chief on the long-anticipated flight to France.

Bennett's Condition Is Still Very Serious

Quebec, Que., April 23 (AP)—The condition of Floyd Bennett, co-pilot of the Ford relief plane, continued serious today.

He is in the Jeffery Hale Hospital here suffering from pneumonia and inflammation of the bronchial tubes. W. H. Delaney, who is attending Bennett, reported that the flier passed a restless night and showed no improvement.

Bennett was suffering from a high fever when the Ford plane reached Lake Ste. Agnes on Friday from Detroit. He has since been confined to his bed and yesterday was transferred to the hospital here.

Thrills Aplenty at Riding Club Show

By THOMAS FAY WALSH

With keen anticipation the kiddies have awaited the second night of the invitation horse show at the New Riding Club, this being the evening for them to "strut their stuff." Quite ably they opened the show, getting everything out of their tiny mounts, for rivalry was keener than among the blase grownups.

Freckles, owned and ridden by Master Pratt, who, by the way, could show his elders a thing or two about the position of hands, won easily over Miss Redmond's Lassie, which received second.

The gallery sat chewing its heart as rider after rider in the jumping classes took a header into the tanbark. Rockoma was the first to broadcast thrills by a refusal, almost sending his rider over his head. But by a very clever recovery Ellen Harding was able to go on without further mishap, until she rode her own mare Ella Cinders. Here she escaped what seemed serious injury by rolling out of the horse's way.

RIDER THROWN.

Rose of Cabra brought itself and rider into the limelight after completing the jumps at a furious pace, by wanting to take them all over again, her rider frantically pulling and hauling on the reins. An officer ran out to stop the runaway just at the moment it catapulted its rider through the air with such force that it carried the rescuer heavily to the ground.

It is hard to say from the rail just what causes these mistakes, mostly lack of training, sometimes a lost stirrup, sometimes just negligence; refusals may be the aftermath to too much "railing."

We have always enthusiastically advocated the forward jumping seat, but perhaps some of the falling could be traced to carrying it to an extreme. After all, the horse does the jumping, the rider is merely a passenger whose attempts to help, usually frustrate the animal's efforts to jump clean. A jumper being ridden side saddle, should have a handicap of 15 per cent it is very difficult to carry the side weight, and especially difficult to get the hind legs over the jump.

The fair owner of a show stable was overheard giving the formula for obtaining a winning saddle horse, one-third conformation, one third gaits and one-third Mrs. Grinnell. This was a spontaneous, superb compliment to her rare ability as a show rider. The Fox is a dangerous performer, rushes his jumps and does not seem to care whether he falls or not, certainly not a fit horse for a woman to ride.

Park Hacks produced an astonishingly beautiful horse in Flamingo. A little "above" himself, perhaps, he bucked and played some, but as one spectator remarked, he could have won with three legs.

In a later class the surprise of the evening came in his defeat by Dale McDonald, a fine horse to be sure, splendidly shown by Miss Miriam Winslow. Both are the same age, and look and move alike.

Flamingo is one of the finest horses of his type I have ever seen, with presence, extraordinary brilliancy in way of moving, in fact, a potential champion. Dr. Grenside must have had his reasons for the decision, but they certainly were obscure to the "railbirds."

No top balcony at the old Howard ever gave a more vociferous, whistling, stamping applause than was rendered Sergt. Bessig (U. S. A.) Nashoba, the bad performer of the night before, came through for a fine performance. This horse is not bad, only confused, does not know what it is all about. He has type, color and is a natural jumper. Kindness and proper training are what he needs.

Young Bancroft has improved wonderfully at riding jumpers since last seen at the Cohasset horse show. He is forming a very bad habit and one hard to break, that of hollering at his horse as it is in the act of "taking off." He won the difficult touch-and-go class with a fine performance.

Boston's mounted officers in all their resplendent panoply, put up a magnificent drill, walked, trotted, cantered and traversed, with a precision and facility that showed considerable training. The judge must have been perplexed in selecting the winner of this class, for of course he wanted to do them all justice, and these were a distinct type.

Romeo, ridden by Patrolman Highland, easily won the blue over his sleek brethern, through his brilliancy of action and instant response to signals.

Sergeant Comerford gave the old cavalry hand signals for the drilling, and had splendid co-operation. We wondered sadly if Time, that vandal and destroyer of all things picturesque, will remove this valiant little force from the streets of Boston.

The classes were run off with great promptness, and of course a horse show without A. H. Lovesy, the bugler, would be as flat as a feast without salt. Millard Speare, who pulls the strings at the N. R. C., is perhaps one of the most notable horsemen in America.

American Over Top Again With 'Beats'

FIRST with the big news, the Boston Evening American continued last week to set the pace for its contemporaries in the evening field.

By far the outstanding achievement of the week was the securing of Baron Gunther von Huenefeld's own story of the Bremen's westward transatlantic flight for readers of this paper. The Baron's story began Friday, and will be continued this week.

Last Monday, the Boston Evening American printed the first details of the Bremen's plight an hour ahead of any other Boston newspaper.

On Wednesday this paper beat its rivals by one edition with the story of the $50,000 jewel robbery at Trinity place station.

And on Saturday, to round out the week, the Boston Evening American had a full two-hours beat on the story and pictures of the murder of Patrolman Eleazer G. Saunders.

DRIVES STUTZ TODAY TO BEAT KEECH MARK

Daytona Beach, Fla., April 23 (INS)—With a new world's speed record set by Ray Keech, Philadelphia driver of the huge White Triplex Special in its sensational run yesterday against time, speed fans today awaited the result of Frank Lockhart's try in his Stutz Blackhawk.

If Lockhart succeeds in breaking Keech's record, the latter said today he would try again. Keech bettered the old record of 206.95 miles established by Major Malcolm Campbell of England here in February, by six-tenths of a mile. The Triplex averaged 207.55269 miles an hour in its run with and against the wind.

Keech came back to set the record after something had gone wrong with the timing device in one trial and he had failed in another.

Running north with the wind, Keech attained a high speed of 213,90374 miles an hour while on his return trip against the wind he negotiated the mile at a speed of 201.56744. His time for the measured mile was 16.83 seconds.

A vast crowd cheered the Philadelphian on to victory. On his last run his arm was burned slightly from a flame shooting out of the exhaust pipes on the car. He told the spectators that he put the fire out without any difficulty, however.

BAY STATE KIN OF MRS. KNAPP FACE GRILL

Albany, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—The special grand jury investigation into former Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp's conduct of the 1925 State census entered its third week today with an entire day set aside for examination of relatives of the former State official.

Five relatives of Mrs. Knapp had faced possible contempt of court proceedings if they had not appeared before the grand jury today.

Mrs. Mary L. Bodkin was the only one of the five relatives of Mrs. Knapp under subpoena who was not in court today.

Clara Blanche Knapp, stepdaughter of the former secretary of state, Mrs. Charles Hubbell Smith, a sister, and her husband and Julia A. Smith, another sister, arrived a few minutes after 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Helen B. Smith, formerly of Hornell, N. Y., now living in Bedford, Mass., and studying at Columbia University, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Knapp, began testifying last Thursday. Her testimony was interrupted to permit examination of Dr. Walter Laidlaw, secretary of the Cities Census Committee, Inc., of New York. She was expected to resume testifying today.

These relatives are to be questioned as to the work they did to earn certain amounts and as to what became of the salary checks they were supposed to have received.

The report of the commissioner who investigated Mrs. Knapp's conduct of the census intimated some of the salary checks made out to her relatives were indorsed in their names by Mrs. Knapp, and that some of the proceeds from these checks reached Mrs. Knapp's possession.

Will Rogers' $5 Joke Is Running Into Money

Washington, April 23 (INS)—Will Rogers, the comedian, has told one joke too many and his latest one will cost him $5, according to Senator William E. Borah (R) of Idaho.

Rogers boasted of sending $5 to Borah's "Republican conscience fund," which the Idaho senator is raising to repay the $160,000 "lent" by Harry F. Sinclair to the Republican party in 1923. Rogers said he had listed five Republicans he wanted Borah to "clean" for his five dollars.

The only thing wrong with Rogers' little joke, Borah said today, was that he never sent in the five dollars. "But," Borah added, "I'm going to write him and ask for the five." Borah also announced he would not abandon his plan for raising the $160,000, even though Sinclair won his acquittal.

ZEO ADMITS HE DID DECIMO CLUB WORK AT REQUEST OF READING

ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S AIDE DID NOT GET ANY MONEY, HE SAYS

and the man who paid Reading the $25,000 retainer.

WITH READING IN NEW YORK.

On one trip, Zeo said Reading accompanied him and on the second occasion, he met the attorney-general in New York, he said. On both occasions he was on a vacation, the witness maintained. He denied that these vacations were the reward of Reading for work he had done in connection with Decimo.

In June or July, Zeo said, at Raeding's suggestion he talked with Webster about reorganizing the Decimo Club.

"Are you in the habit of giving up your evenings, Sundays and holidays to the attorney-general?" he was asked. He answered that he was.

Under questioning, Zeo testified that when he met Reading on his first trip to New York, the attorney-general was staying at the Holly, a Washington sq. hotel. "He was seeking a quiet hotel," Zeo said. Asked why Reading sought a quiet hotel, the witness replied: "Because he had stayed at the Commodore and a sky-scraper was being erected nearby." He might have seen Webster, he admitted.

Q.—What was Webster doing there? A.—It was a social visit.

TELLS OF $15,000 GIFT

David A. Webster, brother of the former Decimo vice-president, took the stand as a witness for the first time and testified he received a gift of $15,500 from Hugh B. Monjar, former Decimo Club head.

Webster described his first meeting with Reading at the McAlpin Hotel, New York, May 19, last year.

The hearing was moved to Room 370, providing somewhat more space than Room 222, in which the investigation has been conducted for three weeks. Reading's defense was not expected to start until tomorrow morning.

During the first session the questioning of Zeo jumped from the missing papers in the Ellsworth cattle case to Decimo and back again several times.

HUNT FOR LOST PAPERS

Under questioning by Maj. Hammond, Zeo declared it was a "popular pastime" to hunt for the missing papers in the attorney-general's office.

Q.—Didn't you think it was a serious business? A.—Yes, but it seemed as if we were looking for them all the time.

Q.—You had no doubt the papers were in the office? A.—I can't say that. I didn't know they were there until they were found.

Zoe testified a search was begun following receipt of a letter from Dist. Atty. Rugg of Worcester, asking for the papers.

Hammond suddenly shfted from the cattle fraud papers and turned to the Decimo Club. He drew from Zeo the admission that he had met J. D. Webster, former vice-president of Decimo.

MET WEBSTER IN NEW YORK

Q.—When did you meet J. D. Webster in New York? A.—I can't give the date. I think it was the end of July.

Q.—Did you ever meet any others in addition to Webster in New York? A.—I think I met a Mr. Johnson.

He denied he had ever gone to Washington on Decimo Club business. He admitted having done work for the Decimo Club.

Q.—What was the nature of that work? A.—Looking up corporation laws in various states.

NEVER GOT ANY FEE.

Q.—Did you ever receive any fee? A.—I never received any fee from the Decimo Club or anyone else.

Q.—At whose request did you do this work? A.—The Attorney-General's. A large part of it was done on my spare time evenings and holidays.

Q.—Who else did work for the Decimo Club? A.—Mr. Lewis, I believe, but I can't testify for him.

Turning again to the cattle fraud papers, Hammond inquired if the witness had worked on the paper in the office of Assistant Attorney-General Putnam. He said he had, that last April or May he shared Putnam's office with him.

SECOND TRIP TO NEW YORK.

Returning to Decimo, Hammond asked: "On your vacation last July how long did you stay in New Yorkk?" A.—A week, probably ten days.

Q.—How many times did you see Webster? A.—I don't know. But mostly in the evening.

Q.—What points were discussed with Webster? A.—I never discussed anything with Webster in regard to the Decimo Club.

Further questioning by Hammond brought out the fact that Zeo had made a second trip to New York in September. This was another vacation of about the same duration. He said Attorney-General Reading went down with him and came home with him.

TALK OF REORGANIZING

Q.—On the first trip you met Mr. Reading in New York? A.—Yes.

Q.—You met him at his suggestion? A.—I don't believe we had any definite appointment. I knew where I could find him.

Q.—Did Reading introduce you to Webster? A.—Yes.

Q.—How many times did you meet Webster in September? A.—I am uncertain.

Q.—At that time was there some talk with Webster about organizing another corporation? A.—I talked with Webster about reorganizing the Decimo Club.

AT READING'S SUGGESTION

Q.—When was that? A.—June or July.

Q.—At whose suggestion? Mr. Reading's.

Q.—Was that about reorganization of the Decimo or Apasco? A.—The reorganization of the Decimo Club.

He was asked if he ever discussed with Reading the reorganization of the Decimo Club, and he replied it was considered advisable to organize a business organization in place of the organization at that time. "I don't believe I know enough about it to discuss it," Zoe said, turning to the committee.

HAD NO PRIVATE PRACTICE

Q.—Wasn't it considered incorporating in some other state beside Delaware? A.—I'm sorry, I can't say. I wasn't counsel.

Hammond then inquired whether his work on Decimo was part of his routine work of the attorney general's office, and Zoe again answered that he did most of the work outside the office. Zoe said he never had a private practice of his own in Boston. "I don't believe I ever had a private client in my office at the State House," he said.

Q.—Do you know whether anyone in the attorney-general's office notified Dist. Atty. Rugg when the papers (Ellsworth) were found. A.—Not that I know of.

PAID OWN EXPENSES.

Q.—Are you in the habit of giving up your evenings, Sundays and holidays to the attorney-general? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And were those two trips to New York a reward of the attorney-general for that extra work? A.—No, sir. I paid my own expenses and I enjoyed the company of the attorney-general.

Q.—Did you solicit your position as assistant attorney-general? A.—No, sir. It came to me as a surprise.

Q.—What is the salary? A.—$3000.

Questioned by Rep. Davison, Zeo said again he never saw the lost folder until the day it was found, so far as he could recall.

Q.—What did Reading say to you when he received the letter of November 23 from Dist. Atty. Rugg relative to the missing papers? A.—He told me to try and locate them.

Q.—And those papers were found in an office which you had searched? A.—Yes.

Q.—Is there any possible way you could have missed them if they were there when you searched? A.—Yes. On the table where they were found was a general legal debris.

Representative Davison then asked regarding the witness' two trips to New York. Zeo said he thought Reading had left a phone number at the Hotel Commodore for him to call on his first visit.

Q.—Where was Reading staying at that time? A.—The Washington Sq. Hotel, I think. He was seeking a quiet hotel.

Q.—How do you know? A.—He told me so.

Q.—Why was he seeking a quiet hotel? A.—Because he had stayed at the Commodore and a skyscraper was being erected nearby.

LOOKED UP THE LAW

Q.—What law did Reading ask you to look up? A.—General corporation law, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware and other states as well.

Q.—Did he ask you to look up corporation law in Massachusetts? A.—Yes.

Q.—When did you first hear Decimo mentioned in the attorney-general's office? A.—When Inspector Mitchell was making his investigation.

Reading Aid 'Pastime' in Cattle Fraud Hunt

HUNTING for the missing Ellsworth "cattle case" papers in the office of Attorney-General Arthur K. Reading was referred to today as a "popular pastime" by Assistant Attorney-General Vincent J. Zeo.

Maj. Hammond, prosecution counsel, was quick to catch upon the phrase.

"Didn't you think it was a serious business?" he asked.

"Yes," Zeo replied, "but it seemed as if we were looking for them all the time."

It was problematical today, not only how long the presentation of Reading's defense would last, but when it would begin. The prosecution's case was not expected to finish until tomorrow morning.

At least 30, and probably 40, witnesses are expected to be called for the Attorney-General.

If direct and cross-examination of each is as exhaustive as it has been with the prosecution witnesses, the hearing may last three weeks or even a month more.

STOCKS DROP IN CIGARETTE WAR

Reduction in prices was said by manufacturers to have been made possible by increased production, the American output having shown a constant monthly gain since 1921.

George W. Hill, president of the American Tobacco Company explained that despite the reduction in price, his company probably would have a greater profit because of greater sales volume.

"This reduction affects principally 'Lucky Strike' cigarettes," he said. "Our increase for the first quarter of this year on 'Lucky Strikes' as compared with last year has been in excess of 56 per cent.

"The increase in volume, despite reduction in price, gives us a gross available dollars and cents profit in excess of our gross available for the first quarter of last year. It is undoubtedly true that the lower price of cigarettes will have a tendency to increase the volume, and we deem it but natural that under those circumstances the volume of 'Lucky Strike' cigarettes should show even greater increase than during the first quarter."

DENIES HIRING INDICTED MEN

Atty. Frank A. Torrey, Groton selectman, overseer of the poor and one of defendants in the so-called Groton graft cases, expressed surprise today when told three co-defendants had been placed on the town's payroll since prosecution of the case began.

Testifying in East Cambridge court under cross-examination by Dist.-Atty. Bushnell, Torrey was asked if John Cutler, Eugene Lincoln and Amos Parquette had been placed on the payroll.

He said he knew some of the men were on the payroll, although he did not hire them, but was surprised to learn all were.

"Isn't it a fact that since the start of the case Parquette, Lincoln and Cutler were placed on the payroll?" he was asked. "Maybe," was the answer.

ALL THREE INDICTED

The three men named were indicted with Torrey, John H. Trayne, head of the street department, and Chief of Police Edward J. Leavitt on charges of conspiracy to manufacture, transport, keep, expose and sell intoxicating liquors. Parquette was also indicted on charges of bribing Leavitt.

"How about Parquette," Bushnell asked Torrey, "Who put him on the payroll?"

"Probably Trayne," was the answer.

"How about Cutler?" "I don't know about Cutler."

"Is there any reason why Parquette should be placed on the payroll of the town after you learned he had bribed Chief Leavitt?" he was asked.

"I didn't hire him," Torrey replied. "I'm surprised to learn he was on the payroll April 12."

Under questioning Torrey admitted he was not surprised to learn the other two men were on the payroll.

The witness admitted he listened while John K. Whiting, milk magnate, talked with Chief Leavitt about the arrest of the milk dealer's son for operating under the influence of liquor and other charges.

DENIES $35 PAYMENT.

He denied he ever gave Leavitt $35 in connection with the case, and said his only reason for going to the chief with Whiting was because the latter asked him to. He said it was "a friendly association."

Torrey was asked if he felt that charges should be brought against Leavitt in view of the Whiting case, and replied: "Yes, but he couldn't be removed except for gross neglect of duty and I didn't consider the Whiting case gross neglect." He admitted he and Trayne were the only selectmen to sign Leavitt's reappointment.

The witness, in re-direct examination, said ill-feeling between him and Mrs. Bertha T. Boynton, who, according to former Chief Leavitt's testimony is paying the latter's expenses in the case, grew out of the fact they were both co-executors of her father's will.

Why This Man Banks with the Shawmut

"JUST why do you bank with the Shawmut?" one business man asked another a few days ago. "Well", came back the answer, "there are two outstanding reasons.

"One is the Shawmut's size and strength. I like to tie up with a big institution that is known and respected wherever I go.

"My second reason is the cordial treatment I get from the Shawmut officers and tellers. It is easy to meet and to know them intimately. Furthermore, they act as if they are genuinely interested in making things pleasant and helpful for me. I really like to go into the Shawmut to do business."

You, too, can have all these advantages just as well as not. Why not tie up with the Shawmut Bank?

MRS. ARTHUR DERBY SCORING IN NEW ORLEANS, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Partner of Former Miss Gaston in Business Venture Has Transferred Activities to Crescent City

SELLING SMART HATS TO SMART PEOPLE IN BOSTON, OR DISPOSING OF CHARMING headgear to feminine New Orleanians, both come easily to pretty and vivacious Mrs. Arthur Derby. And by selling hats to the haute monde, Mrs. Derby carves out for herself a particular niche in the hall of fame devoted to those social lights who have gone in seriously for a business career. Here in Boston Mrs. Derby was marvellously successful. Now in New Orleans the Boston success is being duplicated. When she and the former Miss Hope Gaston, now Mrs. Cornelius Conway Felton, hung out their sign to let their fashionable intimates know they were doing business at the "Hat Cellar" a general descent was made on the place and a rush of trade ensued.

"EVERYONE" BOUGHT HATS AT THE CELLAR. BUSINESS WAS BRISK AND THE fair founders were hailed as two venturesome voyagers successfully sailing the sea of commerce. This was some three years ago. The thriving trade brought delight to owners, of course, and to the patrons who purchased and wore the smart chapeaux. Then marriage claimed Miss Gaston almost to the exclusion of hats, although her interest has never really flagged; merely been interrupted by trips abroad and the advent of a small new member to the Felton nursery. Mrs. Derby, having tasted the wine of success, took her flair for organization and her bright and vivacious self down to New Orleans, whither Mr. Derby's business affiliations already had taken him.

BOTH SHE AND MR. DERBY being quite at home in the very upper crust of New Orleans society, that city of southern aristocracy and beauty presented itself as a fertile field for her talent. Naturally, she finds selling hats there quite as fascinating as it proved to be in Boston. And now she has a flourishing shop and is firmly entrenched. Whether or not she calls it the "Hat Cellar" I do not know. But by whatever name it is known, the hats coming from a shop presided over by the former Miss Jeannette Barr, are sure to be greatly in demand. Summers Mrs. Derby spends mainly in Bar Harbor, where the older generations of Derbys were pioneers in the smart summer colony.

A PORTRAIT IN OILS OF THE Comtesse de Pins, Moubrun, France, just completed, bears the signature of Albert Felix Schmitt of Cambridge. Mr. Schmitt is painting this winter in Pau, where he has a fine studio set up in the Hotel Gassion, just handy to the apartment he and Mrs. Schmitt occupy there. The Comtesse is a very beautiful subject for portraiture. Her youth and good looks and charming personality enthuse a painter of portraits to high endeavor. Everyone pronounces Mr. Schmitt's picture a marvellous likeness and wonderfully distinguished. The Count particularly is charmed with it.

LA COMTESSE AND HER spouse belong to the Haute Noblesse, one of the old noble families almost snuffed out during the Revolution. History of that time tells a moving story of the Count's great-grandfather being rescued from the oxcart, en route to the guillotine, by faithful peasants belonging to his estate. Mr. and Mrs. Schmitt are having a delightful winter and spring in Pau. Fresh snow on the mountains is but a contrast for the verdant foliage and spring flowers that make of Pau a marvellously colored fairyland. Beside several portrait commissions, Mr. Schmitt is doing mountain landscapes.

WILLIAM STUART FORBES of Boston and Hamilton is, in the absence abroad of Mrs. Forbes and Miss Barbara Forbes, about to open up "Lone Tree Farm" in Hamilton for the season. Mrs. and Miss Forbes are now in Paris. They accompanied Mr. Forbes abroad when that gentleman, at the behest of his physician, went a-traveling in search of health and to mend broken bones after a spill in the hunting field. They did some of the Mediterranean countries together, Italy and Sicily, and then Mr. Forbes came home, while mother and daughter hied themselves to Paris for a stay.

BEING AN ARDENT FOLLOWER of the hounds and prominent in the Myopia clique, Mr. Forbes not only owns and rides horses but shows them as well. His string was entered in several classes at the recent New Riding Club shows. He wore the "pink" and had a hunt team entered in the last class of the second and final evening, and hunters entered in various of the classes devoted to the nags who top the timbers with ease and frequency. The Forbes estate in Hamilton is right in the heart of the Myopia section, where hunting is a chief attraction, when the Myopians are not playing polo or attending race meets.

John W. Watson Is Back in Hub

AFTER DOING A JAUNT OF the tropics John W. Watson has come back to town with a fine coat of brown and tales of pleasant days spent in small boat sailing beneath a blazing southern sun. All the interesting ports of the Spanish Main were on his itinerary. Here in the North Mr. Watson follows enthusiastically a liking for yachting. As skipper of a sloop dubbed "The Wow," he shone in local yachting annals from time to time. So while doing a tropical trip it was natural to expect that he would devote considerable time to the sailing of small boats.

THE LAW OF LIFE

A radiant force pulses through all life. It holds all things together. It manifests itself in the earth, creating all substance. It manifests itself in us, creating energy to build body, brain and soul. We are equally dependent upon energy and minerals. One springs from the sun, the other from the earth. A little grain of wheat contains both. It is the balanced product of a divine law. This is why Wheatsworth Products satisfy. You will find an unlimited store of energy in Wheatsworth Crackers.

Tonic in Spring

How are your nerves feeling these days? A little raggedy after a strenuous winter? If they are, let me remind you that the spring vegetables are far superior to any medicine for patching up these ragged edges.

And the health mother, who wants to pep up her family's spring appetite and prepare them thoroughly to enjoy the coming outdoor fun, will increase her repertoire of salads.

Nothing is so refreshing, so light and beneficial as a generous serving of crisp salads with a piquant dressing. Let "larger salads and more frequent" be your slogan.

Salad making is one form of cookery where your friends can roam at will. With a favorite ready-prepared mayonnaise on the pantry shelf, you can proceed to touch up the clean, crisp, chilled salad greens which your local market affords.

Serve your salads with the meal or following it if the meal has been a rather heavy one. Or, if fairly light, use the salad in the form of a dessert. Here's a particularly delicious and springy combination:

Spring Salad—Shred young cabbage very fine and cut an equal amount of crisp apples in shoestring pieces. To this add ½ c. of chopped olives or chopped nuts, or both (you should have about 2 c. of the cabbage and apple mixture). Sprinkle lightly with sugar and lemon juice. Mix with mayonnaise and serve on crisp lettuce.

We particularly like a mayonnaise that you will find on our shelves in the Martha Lee Kitchen because we know that it made of first-class materials, under sanitary conditions. Moreover, it is a dressing which appeals to all palates—even those who object to the least trace of oil in a salad dressing.

This Mocha Macaroon Pudding Is Very Good

Scald one pint milk and one cup strong coffee in double boiler. Add 6 tbsps. of quick-cooking tapioca, ¼ teaspoon salt, cook 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Mix 1 tablespoonful dry cocoa with 6 tablespoons sugar and add. Pour small amount of mixture slowly over slightly beaten egg yolk, stirring vigorously. Return to double boiler and cook until mixture begins to thicken like custard. Remove from fire, stir in 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 5 crumbled macaroons. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Chill. Serve in sherbet glasses, garnished with sweetened whipped cream flavored with vanilla.

Try Stuffed Eggplant Made by This Recipe

Stuffed Eggplant—Cook an eggplant in boiling salted water for fifteen minutes. Then remove, cut a slice from the top and with a spoon remove the pulp, being careful not to break the skin. Mix the chopped pulp, ½ c. soft stale bread crumbs and 1 c. drained crushed pineapple. Melt 2 tbsp. butter, and saute ½ tbsp. chopped onion in it until browned. Add to the pulp, season with salt and pepper; moisten with a little pineapple syrup if necessary. Add 1 beaten egg and refill the eggplant, covering with buttered crumbs. Bake for 25 minutes in a hot oven.

EPICURE'S NOTEBOOK

FOR HAM NOODLES—Take 1 package noodles (6 ounces), 2 c. chopped ham (other left-over meat may be used), 2 eggs well mixed, 1 pt. cream sauce, 3 tbsps. prepared mustard, ⅛ tsp. paprika, 2 tbsps. bread crumbs and 2 tbsps. butter.

Cook noodles in boiling salted water for five minutes. Drain. Grease an earthen dish and add alternate layers of noodles and chopped ham. Beat eggs, prepared mustard and cream sauce together and pour over the ham and noodles. Cover with bread crumbs, dot with small pieces of butter. Bake in a moderate oven until a delicate brown—about 20 minutes.

Woodwork Cleaning

You always feel proud of white woodwork that is spotless and bright. And it is so easy to keep it that way—with the aid of an old friend.

To clean white woodwork safely and quickly, sprinkle some baking soda on a wet cloth and with this rub the woodwork thoroughly. Then rinse with a clean wet cloth and wipe dry—this removes all dust, grease, soot—it make white woodwork like new.

Pure bicarbonate of soda has a hundred helpful uses. For instance, when washing clothes, if the water in the tub is softened by adding half a pound of this baking soda, then less soap and less rubbing will be needed, and the clothes will be whiter when washed.

Shepherd Pie Rule

For Shepherd's Pie use 3 small onions, whole cloves, 2 c. small chunks of cold mutton, beef or veal 1 tbsp. grated onion, 2 c. mashed potatoes, 2 tbsps. dripping, or any fat; 2 tbsps. flour, ½ tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. pepper, 1 pint water or stock, 1 tbsp. prepared mustard.

Peel onions; stick whole clove in each and place evenly in bottom of baking dish; surround onions with small chunks of meat; pour over this the sauce given above mixed as any other sauce. The sauce should nearly but not quite cover the meat.

Pile enough mashed potatos over the top to make a generous crust and spread with a little butter; cook in hot oven until the potato is richly browned and you see the steam puffing through.

Cauliflower and Pineapple Combined

Boil a two-pound head of cauliflower until almost done. Then make a white sauce of 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk and seasonings. Drain the cauliflower and one can of pineapple tidbits, and add to the white sauce. Stir gently until the cauliflower is done and the pineapple is heated through.

Shortcake Recipe

For Strawberry Shortcake take 2 c. all purpose flour, 1 tsp. salt, 4 tsp. baking powder, 2 tbsp. sugar, 4 tbsp. shortening, ¾ c. milk.

Sift the flour once before measuring. Mix and sift flour, salt, baking powder and sugar together. Cut in the shortening. Mix in the liquid to make a soft dough. Spread on two well greased layer tins and bake. Remove from oven and spread lightly with butter. Spread desired fruit between layers and on top of cake. Bake 12 minutes, 425 degrees F. hot oven. Twelve servings. One quart strawberries, 1 c. sugar, crush strawberries, add sugar and serve with shortcake.

Filled Celery Treat

Crisp twelve stalks of celery in the ice box. Blend 1 c. crushed pineapple, ½ c. finely chopped nuts and 1 cream cheese with 1 small can deviled ham. Use enough mayonnaise to handle easily. Season with salt and tobasco and stuff the celery stalks with the mixture.

Watercress Salad Good at This Season

Clean a bunch of watercress, drain it and arrange in a salad bowl. Chop three slices of celery fine and add one can of drained pineapple tidbits. Stir in enough mayonnaise to moisten and then arrange over the watercress. Decorate with dabs of mayonnaise and sprinkle with paprika.

Dishes in ⅓ less time

"My friends say I must exaggerate the amount of kitchen work I do . . . because my hands are so white and fine! So I tell them to wash dishes with Chipso and they'll believe! Chipso-suds really do the work, soaking the grease and soil away—while I do the rinsing and wiping!"
Mrs. H. C. G.—Louisville, Ky.

When you want Chipso's quick-working suds instantly, how many steps away is the Chipso box? By the washtub, when you need it for dishes?—or left by the sink when you're starting washday?

But you can have Chipso's help, merely by stretching out your hand, if you always have two boxes in the house.

It's as simple as this: Keep the 25c size by the washtub or washing machine to dip your cup into—and another Chipso package at the sink, to sift Chipso flakes into the dishpan!

If it has happened that you have only used Chipso to get through dishes ⅓ quicker, you have a treat in store for you—in a Chipso washday! It leaves out all the old-fashioned drudgery! So simple, so quick, that washdays end before 10 in the morning!

"My neighbor seldom finished washing before 2 o'clock. 'How do you get your clothes out so early?' she asked me. So I loaned her some Chipso, told her to soak the clothes in Chipso-suds about half an hour, then squeeze them well, and she'd only have a few spots to rub! That week we were 'hanging out' together!"

Deviled Chicken Is an Attractive Dish

For devilled chicken take a chicken weighing about 2½ pounds. Clean, wipe dry and place on a hot broiler and cook 15 to 18 minutes. Serve with following sauce: Two tbsp. butter, 2 tbsp. chopped onions, 2 tbsp. prepared mustard, 1 tbsp. flour, ½ can tomato soup, 2 tbsp. chopped parsley, 1 tsp. sugar, ½ tsp salt.

Brown onions in butter, add flour and then tomato soup, water, sugar, salt and cook five minutes. Lastly add prepared mustard. Pour over chicken. Garnish with chopped parsley.

Broiled HAM and Happiness

1 In spite of the gloomy evening sky, here is one man hurrying home tonight with light steps . . . .

2 Because his wife said to him this morning: "We are going to have broiled ham for supper."

3 She will have fried apples, too. And smooth, creamy, mashed potatoes will grace the ruddy gravy that oozes from the thick slice of ham as it broils merrily under the flame.

4 That's when a man rejoices in the knowledge that there will be Blue Label Ketchup on the table. Its full-bodied spiciness adds just the zestful touch that makes the mouth water for more—more of everything, ham, and potatoes and gravy, and fried apple rings.

Did You Ever Try It?

Have you ever deliberately set out to find whether the brand of ketchup you use is really the one you like best? Why not try it? The famous "blindfold jury" worked just that way and their verdict was overwhelmingly Blue Label for first choice.

There is a big difference in ketchup flavors and Blue Label seems to please the taste of more people than do any of the others on the market.

BLUE LABEL KETCHUP
Wakes up the appetite!

Will Lure Appetite

ASPARAGUS is always appealing to capricious spring appetites. It is delicate and flavorful and may be made more so if care is given to the cooking and serving.

Since the stalks require more cooking than the tips, the asparagus should cook in an upright position, so that the stalks cook and the tips steam. The upper part of a double boiler will do the trick, and it is recorded that one ingenius housewife used a large coffee pot such as campers use.

Asparagus tips may be served with a sauce made as follows—melt 1 tbsp. butter, stir into this 1 tbsp. flour, stir in 1 c. milk or water in which asparagus has boiled, ¼ tbsp. salt and 2 tsps. prepared mustard. Sometimes it is good to use just a sauce of melted butter.

Asparagus with cheese makes a delicious and substantial dish—here is the recipe: 2 cs. cooked asparagus, 1 c. soft bread crumbs, ½ c. grated cheese, 1 tsp. prepared mustard, 2 tsps. melted butter, ½ c. milk, salt, pepper.

Moisten the bread crumbs with the melted butter to which the prepared mustard has been added. Arrange in a baking dish alternate layers of bread crumbs, asparagus (cut in half-inch pieces) and cheese, seasoning each layer. Sprinkle a few buttered crumbs on top. Pour the milk over all. Brown lightly in a hot oven.

The Market's Tower

IN the Spring the housewive's fancy turns to thoughts of reducing and spring reducing means spring vegetables, which certainly are to be found in great variety right now.

Native-grown scallions, lettuce, radishes, cucumbers, dandelions and rhubarb head the rest. The stalks of the native rhubarb may be a bit small and short but the flavor is there.

Fresh mackerel have arrived on the fish counters, 23c. to 25c. a pound. Fresh herring are retailing at 10c. to 15c. a pound, and lobster prices have dropped little. Jack shad is only 25c. a pound.

Among meats, ham is probably the most economical buy and bacon is also reasonable. Most of the duck offered is frozen and priced low, only 25c. to 29c. a pound. But a few duckling have come into the market from nearby duck farms.

Bananas are reasonable and so are the citrus fruit, orange, grapefruit, and lemons. And twelve "best nearbys" are only 45c. to 51c. so it behooves us to make the most of the spring egg harvest.

A Tomato Aspic

NEW dishes spring from the most modest kitchen as well as from the most elaborate cuisines. Every housewife, at some time or other, makes a discovery and if it's too good to keep, she passes it along. Here's one—a recipe for tomato aspic that's as economical as it is easy to prepare:

TOMATO ASPIC SALAD

Drain a large can of tomatoes in a colander (saving the pulp portion for stewed tomatoes, meat sauce or to serve with spaghetti). Heat the juice to boiling, add one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon sugar, two drops Worcestershire sauce and one-half bouillon cube. Meanwhile soak one and one-half tablespoons gelatin in two tablespoons cold water. Dissolve it in the boiling liquid, strain and pour into individual molds wet with cold water. This recipe serves six persons.

The ingredients for four persons are: One small can tomatoes, few grains of salt, one-third teaspoon sugar, one drop Worcestershire sauce, one-third bouillon cube, one tablespoon gelatin and one tablespoon cold water.

Lesson by a Chef

DON'T forget that there'll be a welcome waiting for you in the Martha Lee Kitchen next Wednesday, when Charles Binda, chef of the Georgian Restaurant, will give a lesson in home cookery.

Mr. Binda, who is a native of Como, Italy, has been connected with many prominent hotels and restaurants and for seven years has been chef of the Brattle st. Georgian.

The Georgian cafeterias have long been noted for choice food at surprisingly economical prices—made possible by their tremendous buying power. The huge Georgian kitchens are immaculate and are supervised by skilled dietitians and expert chefs.

Mr. Binda will prepare braised calves liver—that deserved popular dish—baked lima beans, salad a la Georgian and another salad, pimento Cup Farci, that I can assure you is as easy to look at as it is to eat.

These are all recipes that you'll be glad to add to your collection and will be called for by your family frequently, I know.

Try This Rule for Pineapple Printanier

With a special knife, cut baby carrots and beets into fancy shapes, then boil for about eight minutes. There should be one cup of each vegetable. Dip pineapple slices from a can of pineapple into flour and saute in hot fat until browned. Arrange the pineapple rings on a platter. Put the drained vegetables in the fat and cook until tender. Then arrange in mounds on the pineapple slices.

Here's How to Make Orange Mint Cocktail

Orange Mint Cocktail calls for 3 oranges, 1 small can pineapple, drained, ½ c. sugar, 2 tbsp. chopped mint, 1 tbsp. lemon juice.

Cut the fruit in small pieces. Add sugar, lemon juice and mint. Chill. Served in sherbet glasses topped with sprig of mint or a Maraschino cherry. Serves 6. If fresh mint is not obtainable substitute 1 teaspoon mint flavoring.

Keep Brush Clean to Improve the Hair

Keep your hairbrush clean if you want your hair to look fresh and shining. As the scalp is part of the skin, care as to its cleanliness should be applied with double force, because the hairy covering invites the collection of dirt.

Rhubarb Pineapple Pie Is Delicious

For Rhubard Pineapple Pie remove skin from stalks of rhubarb and cut in half-inch pieces. There should be 1½ cups. To improve the flavor of rhubarb put it into a colander and pour boiling water over it.

Add 1½ cups well drained crushed or grated pineapple and ¾ cup sugar thoroughly mixed with 2 tbsps' flour. Fill pastry lined pie pan, cover with top layer of pastry and put into a hot oven.

After 10 minutes of baking reduce heat and bake 30 minutes longer. A strip of wet cloth about 1 inch wide stretched lightly around outside rim of pie will prevent juice from escaping.

Delicious Cocoanut Delight Recipe

Soften 2 tbsp. of granulated gelatine in ½ c. cold water. Add this to 2½ c. of boiling water in which 1 c. sugar and ⅛ tsp. salt have been dissolved. Add ½ c. strained lemon juice.

Then pour ⅛ c. of gelatine mixture into mould. Arrange 1-3 c. Maraschino or canned cherries, drained, in mould when beginning to set. When remaining mixture is also almost set stir in ½ c. dessicated or moist cocoanut and add to mould. Chill, unmould and sprinkle with another ½ c. of moist cocoanut.

HOSPITALITY THRILLS BARON

done. To these other aviators who have not reached us as yet but from whom we have a message that they are coming, we are also grateful for coming to Greenly to assist us.

We have drunk deeply at this fountain of friendship, Koehl and I, and since leaving his own hospitable shores, Fitzmaurice, too.

At home in the Fatherland, when the flight of the Bremen was in its crystallizing stages, had it not been for the kindness of true friends who desired the fulfilment of my dreams, we should not be here at Greenly today.

Eleven friends, eight of them of Bremen, were able to provide me, as a matter of personal loans between friends, with the eighty thousand marks that were necessary for the purchase of our Junkers plane, which we have named Bremen in honor of the gentlemen of that free city who made its flight to America possible in the first case.

There was Herr Storbe, the banker of Bremen, who provided me with a personal loan of 10,000 marks when I told him of the desires that were in the hearts of Koehl and myself and that we believed we could be the first men to fly the Atlantic Ocean from the East to the West in an airplane.

There was Herr Carl Lahusen, of Delmenhorst, who followed with a second ten thousand marks, which made me feel in those days when all that we had was our dream, that we should soon see its fruition. Herr Frederick Roselius of Bremen was the third recruit to our true and faithful army of friends, and he, too, lent me ten thousand marks, and swelled my total to thirty thousands of capital.

JOY KNEW NO BOUNDS

Herr Carl Niede of Bremen with a loan of 10,000 marks, was our fourth recruit, and, when I told Koehl that we now had secured half the capital essential for the purchase of our Junkers plane our mutual pleasure knew no bounds. We were well on the way toward the preparations to fly to America.

Herr Willy Eilers of Bielfeld then lent me ten thousand marks, and our total had passed the half-way mark and was now at 50,000 marks. From Herr Senator Boemers of Bremen, I received 5000 marks, and a similar amount from Herr Westerschulte, who is also of Bremen.

Dreams were progressing toward their goal. The next loan that I was able to receive was from Herr Engen Wendelstadt in Bremen. This was a matter of 8000 marks, and left us only a total of 12,000 marks to find for our Bremen aeroplane, which was then at Dessau in the Junkers factory.

On visiting Berlin I was able to secure a 5000 mark sum from Herr Doctor Regendaus, a banker. In Bremen Herr Willy Kulenkamff added 2000 marks, and placed us within 5000 marks of our grand total of our 80,000 marks, required for the purchase of the Bremen.

We were nervous with the excitement of seeing our goal in sight. We were so near and yet so far. Seventy-five thousand marks were in our hands, but we must have 80,000 to make the Bremen ours and accept delivery. Then the last 5000 marks came to me from Die Haacke-Beck-Brauerei of Bremen, and our first task was accomplished.

That day now seemed to be at hand. Our good faithful friends, some of whom, perhaps, believed us foolhardy in the extreme, had nevertheless made it possible to make a second attempt to cross from East to West in an aeroplane from the Junkers establishment at Dessau. We were jubilant.

FRIENDSHIP BUOYED US UP

How often, in the days when in Ireland, we were the recipients of such great hospitality and help, did I think of those good friends of ours in the Fatherland who had helped us so practically with the funds that were required so much and who, after we left them, were still helping us with the gifts of their hearts and their good wishes for our success.

I have thought of those friends in many peculiar places and under all manner of circumstances since we left the shores of the Fatherland. Always they have been a star shining in the sky of night to keep us pushing onward and onward when, at the time, all hope for success, and often life itself, seemed to have fled.

I thought of those dear men as we paced the aerodrome of Baldonnel and scanned the heavens for signs of the weather that we must have before we could leave with a degree of safety. Of them and of our Irish friends I have thought, time and again, as we were skimming the angry waves in the effort to reach America. When all hopes seemed to be gone their friendship has been present to buoy us up and keep us winging our way through the fog or the sleet or the raging storm toward our goal.

These friends of ours, these friends who aided me when the responsibility for financing the expedition was mine, these other friends who gave so cheerfully of their help when we were in Ireland, these so hospital friends of Greenly Island and of Canada who did so much for us after we arrived have taught me that life's greatest gem is found in the relations of men to one another in the sincerity and fine quality of friendship and of giving of one's self to aid the one who stands in need of help.

EXTENDS THANKS TO ALL

Everybody has been so kind and good to us that we are overwhelmed. From every corner of the firmament has come the extended hand of human fellowship. Whether the friend has been German, Irish, Canadian or American, the giving has been without thought of race or creed. One learns, therefore, that, in human beings, races and creeds really have no part in the determination of fellowship. One gives to another because he is a man and because one's fellow man has need of one's help.

What is there in living that could be finer to all these people, wherever they are? To America and to Europe, to men of good heart everywhere, I would like to extend through the Hearst newspapers the thanks of myself and my comrades for what every one has been to us. When we leave our island home here at Greenly and are again on the wing, with New York as our destination, we shall be thinking still of all this human kindness, kindness which, to some future day, I trust I shall be able to repay.

(The Baron's own story will appear from day to day exclusively in the Boston Evening American. The next chapter will be published tomorrow.)

RELIEF PLANE HOPS OFF FOR GREENLY ISLE

start this morning for Greenly Island.

The plane carried a propellor, both ski and wheel landing gear and various other parts for the Bremen as well as a supply of fuel.

Major Fitzmaurice, who flew out to civilization to get aid for his German comrades, Baron von Huenefeld and Captain Koehl, also packed into the relief plane food, clothing and smoking materials for the marooned aviators.

Germans Are Eager to Start New York Hop

By LESLIE ROBERTS.

(International News Correspondent.
(Copyright, 1928, by International News Service.

Greenly Island, April 23 (By Airplane to Seven Islands and Murray Bay and Land Wire to New York)—Impatient over continued delays in getting replacement parts to Greenly Island for the Bremen, Baron von Huenefeld and Capt. Herman Koehl were cheered today by the arrival of the tri-motored Ford monoplane and its precious burden of supplies. Repairs on the big Junkers plane will be started at once.

EAGER TO RESUME WAY.

If weather permits the Bremen may be able to hop off Wednesday morning, but everything depends upon improvement in the present atmospheric conditions.

"I want to repeat that the people of this isolated community have done everything in their power to aid us and make our stay as comfortable as possible, but we want to get on our way and finish the flight," said Baron von Huenefeld, commander of the plane.

"When we landed here Capt. Le Templier, keeper of the government lighthouse, provided us freely with food from his slender larder. He himself was none too well stocked for there had been no supply ship to the island since last autumn and the ice is so bad that it looks as though it will be come weeks before another ship touches here.

"We have all learned one thing. The people who live in these isolated districts beyond the rim of civilization are among the finest in the world. They are hospitable and charitable and give freely of what they have."

PLANE IS PROTECTED.

The Baron gave some additional details of the difficulties he encountered in raising money for the flight. It was financed with funds he obtained through personal loans.

There was a fresh snow fall over the week-end and the wind was high a great deal of the time. Visitors from the Labrador mainland crossed the ice to see if the relief plane had arrived and to say farewell to the transatlantic airmen in the event they had started final repair work on the Bremen.

The plane has been covered as well as possible to protect it from intermittent snow storms. Baron Huenefeld said that the motor is in excellent condition and has not suffered from the intense cold that prevails here, especially at night.

Chamberlin Hops North to Greet Bremen Crew

Hartford, Ct., April 23 (AP)—Clarence D. Chamberlin took off for Lake Ste. Agnes, Quebec, from Brainard Field at 10:05 a. m. today to return the greeting to the crew of the Bremen which was accorded himself and Charles Levine after their transatlantic flight from this country to Germany.

Chamberlin took off in one of the two Fairchild cabin monoplanes of the L. & H. Aircraft Company, making the trip and carrying his manager, Linton Wells, round-the-world flier; Edward B. Kelly, treasurer of the Airport Construction Company and his business associate, and Ralph Morgan, a photographer, as passengers.

The other plane, piloted by Lieut. Carl A. Dixon, carried as passengers Lieut. Harry Generous, state deputy commissioner, and Sergt. Charles F. Arnold. Chamberlin arrived in Hartford at 3:10 this morning from New York and slept only a few hours before starting.

This is the second trip to Lake Ste. Agnes for Sergt. Arnold and Lieut. Dixon, both fliers having gone up to get photographs and news of the Bremen's crew on April 17.

If the weather is favorable, the fliers will proceed from Lake Ste. Agnes to Murray Bay.

Dearest Anne:

The forsythia tree is all in bloom in our yard and there are spring flowers appearing in the grass where the sun shines warmest.

The birds are fast returning, and it's spring in the great world out-doors.

It's spring in the shops, too, and they are filled with the color and the "newness" that goes with spring and the "after-glow" of Easter.

In Softest Blue,

yellow, peach, pink and orchid come some delightful dresses at the Hugh J. Bradley, Inc., Women's Wearing Apparel Shop, at 9 St. James Ave., Park Square Bldg. These are doubly valuable because they come with detachable sleeves and may be worn for afternoon or evening affairs. They are made of lace and georgette and are priced at $15.00 and $22.50. There are many more dresses in this lovely shop for every occasion and a full line of springtime hats, in viscas, flowered turbans and new styles. You'll adore the imported flowers they have there and the rare line of full fashioned silk stockings.

The Fame

of permanents given by the Poll Parrot Salon and Nestle Circuline Permanent Wave Shop has spread all around and people are coming back in force for waves at a reasonable price which patrons will receive during April. These permanents are given under the direction of Mr. Greene, a Grand Prize winner of the Nestle Circuline Process and inventor of the Miracle method of permanent waving which can be had only at this shop. For appointments visit any of the various Poll Parrot Salons—177 Tremont St. (Cap. 6775) 58 Winter St. (Cap. 5846) or 40 Scollay Sq. (Hay. 2903).

There's a Treat

in store for us in the Cotton Store, fourth floor of The Shepard Stores at 30 Winter St. Miss Dougherty of the Pacific Mills is to be there all this week to tell us of the wearing power and durability of the famous Pacific sheets which they have on sale there. These sheets are guaranteed for three years' satisfactory wear. They come in all sizes from crib sheets to the largest size, 90 in. x 108 in., and are priced from $1.00 to $2.15. The pillow cases come in three sizes and are priced at 40c, 42c and 45c a piece. The quality of the cotton is excellent and they come in hemstitched finish also.

Gem Air Permanent!

There's a special price for Tuesday and Wednesday only of one of the famous Gem Air Permanents for $8. No electric wires are used on the scalp—only hot air—and the permanent comes out in wide, natural waves that will please you. Then there's the Arnao Scalp Steamer, which will bring the hair health and beauty, revitalize permanents, bringing back their shining loveliness, and prepare the scalp for whatever treatment is needed at a special price of $2 for two days only. Call at Cheney Beauty Shop, 175 Tremont St., fifth floor, telephone Capitol 2297 for appointments for good results in any branch of Beauty Culture.

The Superfluous Hair which shows so plainly on Florence's face is an unforgivable error these days, isn't it? The deft scientific use of the electric needle removes the offending growth painlessly and permanently and it does not leave a mark. I hope Florence will visit James Brooks, who is a reliable expert with years of experience. He will guarantee satisfactory results and her face will be soft and fair and lovely. Appointments may be made by calling Liberty 4466, or by calling at his office at 100 Boylston St. between 2 and 5 P. M.

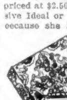
Molly's Bridge Parties are always so different, Anne! She used decorations at the last one of sea-blue with the dearest score cards. They had a lovely lady sitting on the sand watching the ships painted on them. And the whole color scheme blended so well. The reason her favors are so different is because she buys them at Filene's Gift Shop, Bridge Department, on the First Floor. They have the most adorable card sets in a leather case with covers of yellow, blue, orchid, and red, combined with black, with two sets of gilt-edged cards for $2.25. Then there are note pads priced at $1.00 with leather cases to match. They have bridge table covers in red, green or black with red or gold hearts, spades, clubs and diamonds in the corners priced at $1.00. And some rare stocking boxes in soft pastel shades priced at 65c for case to hold six pairs of stockings, or $1.00 for the size to hold a dozen pairs. Molly's bridge games are sometimes out on the porch, where the sound of the surf floats in from the sands nearby, and the air is filled with sweetest odors from her old-fashioned garden. But she always gets her favors and supplies at Filene's. Let's purchase some, too!

The Rare Misty Morn

shade in hosiery for springtime wear joins Kasha beige, Mokatan, Mauve gray and London Fog in the soft sheer stockings in the Hosiery Department of Thayer McNeil Company, 47 Temple Place or 414 Boylston St. You may get three pairs, so economical to buy, for $5.00 in chiffon or service weight, regularly priced at $1.95 a pair, or some in outsizes priced at $2.50 a pair or three pairs for $6.50. Then they have extra length stockings at $2.50 a pair, or three pairs for $6.50. You'll love the soft fineness of Thayer McNeil stockings!

Milady Carries



a compact always. A compact priced at $2.50 of Houbigant's elusive Ideal or Quelque Fleur odor because she likes to use it and keep its fragrance through the day. This compact contains powder, rouge and a tiny mirror. The powder comes in Rachael or Flesh and is carried by Jordan Marsh Company's Toilet Goods Department, Street Floor of the Annex. Refills are always obtainable for powder or rouge at 50c. We couldn't be without one of these compacts once we have used one, could we, Anne?

Thirty-five Years of experience! Just think of that! Do you wonder that L. Max, 134 Boylston St., entire third floor, is especially equipped to give you a wave which suits your personality. His prices are reasonable, too. L. Max has skilled, magic fingers and he restores gray or faded hair to its own natural shade and is very successful in treating hair spoiled by harsh dyes. His wide, natural permanent waves will lend you charm through the hot summer months and will suit you perfectly. Call Capitol 5831 for appointment!

An End-of-the-Month

Clearance Sale is going on at Silver's Specialty Shop, 59 Temple pl., room 502. There are the loveliest creations in tailored dress and sport coats, Kashas, Broadcloths, Tweeds and Imported Mixtures, all lined with heavy silk crepe, priced at $19.75. These are really $35.00 values and there is a large assortment to choose from. There are many smart dresses in georgette and printed crepes which are $16.75 to $19.75 values reduced to $13.75. Let's rush up there and get Beth's coat for spring!

At the Delightful Shop of John P. Hughes, 216 Tremont St., Room 506, there's something quite wonderful, dear. There's a modern dryer, which will dry finger waves in 15 to 20 minutes with no bags used. It's a marvelous arrangement and slips quietly into three different speeds, each one intensifying the drying power. And our Miss Kitty McMahon is there, formerly at Studly school, to give you wide, natural permanents at the special price of $9.00. Mr. Hughes specializes in the art of hair cutting, scalp treatments, and facials. For appointments call Capitol 3600!

Femininity Is In and hence curves are again fashionable. But we must have the proper corsettes if we are to wear the new spring clothes. D. R. Emerson Co., 35 Temple Place, are offering an amazing value in pink corsettes, with silk elastic shoulder straps, soft rayon tops and elastic inserts to adjust them properly through the hip line. They come in sizes 32 to 40, and are priced at $2.98. This is a regular $5.00 value, Anne, and we are getting it at Emerson's marvelous 86th celebration values. You'll find excellent values and courteous service in the Corset Dept.

Beautiful Hands

with nails, pink tipped like primrose blossoms, lend personality and charm to their owner. We may all possess them if we use the Peggy Sage manicure products as seen in "Vogue." We do so want them to be soft and white and beautifully kept. The Nicotine Remover priced at $1.00 will remove all stubborn stains from the hands and is especially good for fruit or vegetable stains. Perhaps you are getting low in your supply of these attractive products and if so, make a trip to C. F. Hovey Co., 33 Summer Street, Toiletries Department, First Floor.

Here's News For You

my dear! The Spanish Galleries of Chandler & Co., Tremont St., at West, are opening a brand new section which is to contain smart dresses priced at $10.00. Think of this, Anne! Misses' sizes, 14 to 20, Women's sizes, 34 to 42, and Junior sizes, 13, 15 and 17, in sports dresses, flat crepe, georgette, kashas and prints in high quality dresses at an economical price. You'll find just the dresses you are looking for and you'll be quite amazed at the values you'll find!

At the Most Attractive

Shop of Hesse & Hamilton, Beauticians, at 110 Tremont St., Room 323, we can get one of the very natural Shelton permanent waves at a very reasonable price. This includes shampoo and finger wave. You get very personal attention at this shop, dear, and the waves come out just as if they were wide marcels. You can get facials, shampoos, marcels, hair cutting, hair treatments, manicures and fingerwaving. Call Liberty 8528 for appointments for a luxuriantly beautiful wave to take you through the summer!

Spring Returns

each year, but unfortunately youth does not return with spring. But we can keep it a lot longer if we faithfully use each day Virozol Swedish Face Bath which will act as a perfect cleanser, builder and astringent. It helps to strengthen flabby muscles and is an excellent remedy for enlarged pores. It is cooling and comforting and will make our blood circulate freely and produce the radiant glow of rare face health. Get your supply at any Department Store or Beauty Parlor here in Boston. Price $1.25 a bottle!

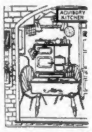
I Want to Tell You more in detail, so that you may tell your friends, of my own foot specialist, Dr. Allen P. Saul, Room 312, New Studio Bldg., 110 Tremont St. His scientific treatment of corns and callouses will relieve aching feet and make you walk so easily and happily. He'll relieve your tired arches with metatarsal pads. And then there's his almost invisible silk elastic stocking, priced at $6.75, which is a real boon to those who have varicose veins. He has the finest line of arch support fitted-to-measure shoes, and will give you advice on your own particular trouble.

There's Something Delightful



in The Friendly Store for us this week, Anne. On the sixth floor, Gilchrist's, 417 Washington st., there is the dearest model kitchen. There are flower boxes outside the windows and it's filled with all new modern kitchen equipment so very dear to housewives. There are cooking classes here on Thursday afternoons, and someone to advise you all the time on your cooking problems and your kitchen utensil troubles. This is an absolutely free service and you may go anytime to get advice. You'll want to move right in to this dear modern kitchen, as I did!

Our Miss Evelyn

at 3 Winter St., 3rd floor, has some of those unlined Kasha coats you've been looking for! And they are priced at $9.50. They are smart indeed. She has some darling ensembles in all the new spring colors priced at $16.50 and afternoon dresses in chiffons, prints and soft, colorful silks. I saw the dearest lace dresses there this week in softest ecru shade priced at $13.95 and her evening gowns are alluring in their lavender, peach, and soft shades. You'll adore some flowered georgette and printed crepe dresses priced at $9.50. You'll find anything that you may desire at Evelyn's.

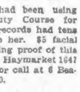
Hollywood Beauties are justly famous. The lovely living models, I mean, who are displaying Mr. Troccoli's skillful permanents, bobs, marcels and finger waves up in the Hollywood Bobbing Shop, 3rd Floor, New Studio Bldg., 110 Tremont St. Mr. Troccoli moulds a gorgeous wave from your hair as skillfully as an artist could paint one with magic brushes. His are the perfect permanents—Nestle Circuline method, for only $10.00. A Troccoli permanent means a sleek, rounding natural wave which will satisfy you completely, the Troccoli bobs are expertly done and the marcels last.

Tell-Tale Necks



No matter, Anne, how youthful a figure women have, if their necks look old and wrinkled, it spells their age and plainly shows how old they really are. At the Post Institute, recently, I saw a prominent society woman who is not less than sixty-five. She didn't look a day over forty-five. I found that she had been using Dr. Post's Beauty Course for years and their records had tens of thousands like her. $5 facial for $2 is convincing proof of this fact. Telephone Haymarket 1647 for appointment or call at 6 Beacon St., Room 910.

What a wonder day this has been! And how many things there have been for us to see. I am very happy because you have been able to get so many of the items you mentioned that you wanted today.

The days just fly away and it won't be long before next Monday comes when there is another lovely trip in store for you and Your

ETHELREDA LEWIS

Adventure and Romance Amid Scenes of Almost Barbaric Splendor

Trader Horn telling of his adventures to Ethelreda Lewis, who discovered him.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Sent to make a survey of the Ogowe river for the trading company he represented in West Africa in the early 70's, Alfred Aloysius Horn, an English boy, 18 years old, has come to a large Galwa village, where there is a native Josh House, supposed to contain an Isoga, a sacred human who has never died. Winning the friendship of the tribe, Horn is initiated as a member of the sacred fraternity, the first white man so honored. The following is a continuation of Trader Horn's narrative of those days as written by himself at the age of 73.

FANS APPROVE NEW BRAVES FIELD LAYOUT

BOSTON'S baseball optimists have seen the new Braves Field and put the real stamp of approval on it. There were 25,000 of these optimists out Saturday. It was a day cold enough to send an Eskimo looking for firewood, yet the 25,000 were present. That shows how badly this village wants a real baseball team.

The optimists, as we were saying, took a look at the new orchard, and decided that it was kayo. The boys saw four home runs knocked into the stands and that made the day perfect, even though three of the four bounced off hostile bats. There are some pretty long hitters on the new Braves, and it stands to reason that the course of a season will even things up in the matter of lengthy clouts.

Nick Flatley

Baseball has become a game of home runs. There's more interest in the circuit clout than in any other one feature of the game. And that's the tipoff. The new 100,000 stands the boys talk of building are all being mapped out so that they will be close enough to the home plate to catch the lofty fly.

The modern baseball fan would much prefer a couple of homers any afternoon, to one of the old-fashioned tight pitcher's battles that used to make the game popular. We live in an era of swatters and the supporters of the Braves are happy because the Wigwam has been turned into what is considered an up-to-date ball yard

That new left field stand is as close as anything in baseball. There will be as many round trippers flipped into the seats there as will drift out of sight anywhere.

Just let Hornsby, Brown, Bell and some more of the Tribal smackers start ringing up homers, and the courageous gentlemen who have invested future profits in the ball club, will soon have the price of the new bleachers in the bank.

Some of the old-timers will kick about it. They claimed through the last few years that Braves Field was the only spot left where a ball game could be played on its merits. But they are in a fearfully small minority. The receipts these days go to the clubs that play for the new baseball generation.

The old Wigwam was entirely too large. Looks like a big league ball park now. It will mean, too, that the home club must have good pitching to be successful. Poor pitching to date has cost the Braves every lost ball game. Careless chuckers are generally victims of the short homer.

JOIE RAY SHOULD MAKE THE OLYMPIC MARATHON TEAM. HE HAS THE HEART AND HIS FEET WILL TAKE CARE OF THEMSELVES

AMATEURS GIVE FANS REAL RING WAR

WAY the boys are piling in looking for tickets, this amateur boxing tourney at the Arena might well be a heavyweight title jam. Everybody and his brother, not to mention a few cousins, wants to go. The works have been sold out and it's rather a pity that Boston's new and larger auditorium wasn't ready for this series of battles.

Ring worms like the amateurs. They know the kids are in there fighting to win all the time. Nothing is in the bag, as the boys say. The young men lack the skill of their professional brothers, but they make up with the zest and earnestness they pack into their work. There's always real war in these affairs, as well as several sections of unpremeditated comedy, which is always the best sort.

This tourney has an Olympic trip attached for the winners, so the kids will be showing everything in each scrap. It may take eight or ten hours each evening to run the program off, but none of the inhabitants will walk out on the show. This is one occasion where the fight fan gets fight, all that his heart desires.

A lot of the pro managers will be peering from the ringside when the heavies go on. The towel swingers are still looking for the big boy who may lick Gene Tunney or whoever happens to be champ in a couple of years. Any husky kid, with the least class, will find himself besieged by managers with more or less alluring contracts.

Some of the good amateurs have managers already, but most of the youngsters are footloose and free. The "we can lick him" boys are willing to take chances on any chap who packs enough poundage. A strong, fast youth, with courage, can be steered into plenty of money these days. If he flops the mgrs. lose nothing. If he comes through, they collect 50 per cent, or so. And take no flemings on the chin.

INHABITANTS OF THE NEW LEFT FIELD BLEACHERS WOULD BETTER TAKE OUT ACCIDENT INSURANCE.

SUCCESS WILL MEAN NEW CROWD RECORDS

THE Braves opening day crowd was a fine testimonial to manager Jack Slattery, to Roger Hornsby and Lester Bell, the new playing stars, and to the club officials. The local gang appreciated the efforts that have been made to put a real ball club to work here.

The more or less sorrowful showing of the Braves didn't affect enthusiasm or hope to any considerable extent. The team has been shot by sickness and the crowds know it. The mob is willing to wait until some baseball weather arrives and the coughing athletes have a chance to strut their real stuff.

Balmy weather Saturday would have meant a crowd of more than 35,000. As it was on a wretched afternoon the biggest throng that ever watched a National League opener marched through the gates.

Success of any sort will mean a new attendance record for Boston this year.

Unless the weather man favors with some warm sunshine, the local golf courses are going to be wet and soggy for some days after the heavy downfall of rain. All courses were coming in splendidly three weeks ago but the stretch of cold weather has retarded their development

[illegible]

Rodney Brown and Parker Whittemore have met and defeated the best four-ball team in this section. In all probability the greatest feat accomplished by Brown and Whittemore was staged at the old Salem Golf Club when they took Walter Hagen and Jack Campbell into camp. In that match, Whittemore was forced to retire with five holes to play, but Rod Brown carried on and won 3 and 2.

[illegible]

With the acquisition of Phil Finlay, Eddie Murphy and Billy Whitcomb, there will be a noticeable shake up in the Charles River Country Club four ball team over last season. Finlay and Murphy will be paired and play No. 1, while Whitcomb will team up with Alex Chisholm. Capt. Lindsey Hooper's team should be in the race from the start and if they get the breaks have an excellent chance of succeeding Brae Burn as champions.

Medalist Jinx Exists, Says Mrs. Horn

By MIRIAM BURNS HORN

National Women's Golf Champion

WHETHER it belongs in the category of golf superstitions, or occupies a realm all its own, probably cannot be determined, but the fact remains that there is such a thing as the medalist jinx.

Just what it is or why it is [illegible] quantity. I am sorry that I do not have the data at hand to quote the comparatively small number of tournament winners that have been among the medalists.

[illegible] I can't remember ever [illegible] would prove interesting [illegible]

However it is true, there are few [illegible] There are exceptions of course when there is one outstanding figure in the field. This [illegible] mostly, in local or minor [illegible] where there are only a few [illegible] players.

NATURALLY, then, it is quite possible for the medalist [illegible] [illegible] there is room for a few slips without [illegible]

[illegible]

THIS point was so clearly illustrated for me at Del Monte. I had every opportunity. My opponent practically handed me the eighteenth and nineteenth holes but I could not take advantage. My power of concentration seemed to be gone.

Calling Off of Today's Game Gives the Sick Players a Chance to Recuperate

By NICK FLATLEY

Each day of vacation this spring means a decided gain on the flu for the Braves ball club, so the manager and the athletes didn't shed any tears when the present December showers caused a postponement of today's game.

[illegible] invalids are convalescing but not too rapidly. The damp and cold take care of that. But a few days of warmth and sunshine will put the ball club from manager down back on its feet. Then we shall see what we shall see.

Boston fans expect to see a lot. They were considerably impressed Saturday even though the game was a rout. The Tribe hit the ball hard and looked good in the field, better than any recent aggregation of this part of the National League.

STAR PITCHERS ILL

The pitching was sour but good pitching cannot be expected until things warm up a bit. Some of the other clubs get it, but they have better staffs than the natives here. The Braves staff is in a more or less experimental state. The two best of the veterans, Kent Greenfield and Bob Smith, have been out of it.

Greenfield hasn't been in uniform since the season opened. Smith went to bed with a [illegible] after the opening game, which he pitched very well. The pair will be out for exercise any good day now, and will be ready to try again by another week.

Judge Fuchs and Jack Slattery are trying to collect pitchers from several clubs and they may get action shortly. Pete Donohue of the Reds has refused to come to terms and several unsuccessful offers have been made for him. There are two or three other regulars that can't be picked off, if the Braves can figure any way of letting playing strength loose.

BELL HITS .448

The club has been outhitting its opposition right along but has been beaten because its own pitchers were so fearfully wild and [illegible] the bad spots. The Braves figure to hit as well as almost any club in the league to front with the best of them. So if they get good pitching they will [illegible] right into the race.

Thus far the team has batted .3[illegible] as against the enemy's .282. But it has only won two ball games. And only one just one was tossed off by bad Boston fielding. Lester Bell, who will be a Wigwam hero—that was evident Saturday—is leading the thumpers with a fine mark of .448.

Taylor, Hornsby and Brown are trailing after him with averages of .391, .390 and .3[illegible] respectively. And a club with that kind of a punch just has to go somewhere. And when Eddie Moore starts, and Richbourg and Farrell recover from the flu, the average is likely to be boosted.

Dick Burrus has always hit .300, but has never done much in the first few weeks. He is a southerner, and likes the warmth. But there is enough smacking power present to permit Richard to come along in his own time provided two or three of the pitchers can show any big league stuff.

AMATEURS IN TITLE BOUTS

comes to having a pull on the heart strings of sport fans.

Bill Kenney and Tom Kanaly, who have charge of this year's bouts, declare that a new attendance record will be set. They say that in former years the rush for tickets has been chiefly for the second night of the show. This year the fans are buying pasteboards for both nights of the tournament. They have found that some of the best bouts usually occur on the opening night when the boys are fresh and enter the ring with all of their energy.

Boston and New England will send some sturdy glove wielders into the ring, but they will have to step lively if they are to hold their own with the mighty array of talent which is here from all parts of the country.

Boston Latin Visits Eagle Yearlings

There are fewer good school games this week than last. Today Boston Latin visits the Boston College freshmen at the Heights, and the Eagle yearlings will probably defeat the in-town team.

Tomorrow Lynn Classical goes to Malden for what should be a first class contest. On the same afternoon, Newton will receive Waltham at home. The Watch City club will get a lot of opposition from their guests, who swung along in powerful winning stride Saturday.

Newton's [illegible] to defeat Everett was the feature of Saturday's schoolboy baseball. Newton [illegible] through the Suburban League teams with little opposition, except from Somerville. The Red and Blue team, with about the best pair of schoolboy pitchers in this vicinity, has an excellent chance for the title this year. Everett may prove a stumbling block for many of the other clubs, however.

There seems to be [illegible] good crop of secondary school hurlers just now. Don Wilson of Newton, Di Angelo of Everett, Blanche and Murphy of Somerville, and Tom Leonard of B. C. high, who fanned 15 Melrose batters Saturday, are all getting a lot of attention from the semi-pro and college scouts.

Capt. Ted Avery of Andover annexed four first places in the dual meet with the Tech freshmen Saturday, making 43 points scored by the versatile youngster in two meets he entered in three days. This boy [illegible] thing well in the track and field events. If he continues to improve when he reaches college, he should be a candidate for collegiate decathlon honors before many seasons pass.

Sunday papers carried an account of a six mile road race in a town [illegible] state with two of the [illegible] almost neck and neck up to the tape.

The townspeople may get a thrill out of watching the boys run in a road race, but the best interests of the young men demand that they be better cared for than that. Boys of high school age are not at a stage of development which will allow them to engage in competitive races of any distance over a mile.

Correct Manners Explained

By MRS CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

Miss B said "to carry a purse" and Miss C said "to wear a purse." I agree with Miss C. Which do you think is correct? M. C.

HITHERTO the word usually said "carry a purse" but now since the entire feminine world seems to [illegible] the ensemble idea perhaps it would be more proper for us to say to "wear a purse."

As a matter of fact there is fundamentally the same difference as [illegible] in these verbs as applied to [illegible] a walking stick. In this country we say "to carry a walking stick" because walking sticks are not so much in use as they are, for instance, in England. And in London [illegible] is sartorially to a man [illegible] Paris is sartorially to a woman—they say "to wear a walking stick."

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

At an informal dinner where the salad is served with the main course are salad forks used or is the salad eaten with the dinner fork?

2—At a wedding at high noon in the home of the bride where she wears a veil, is it necessary for the bridegroom to be in full dress, or is a Tuxedo appropriate? Also the same question with reference to a morning church wedding.

3—When a person expresses his pleasure, after an introduction, at having met you, is "Thank you" the proper thing to say? B.

WHEN the salad is served with the main course, salad forks are sometimes placed at the left of the plate but usually the salad is eaten with the dinner fork. With the main course it is usually regarded as another vegetable, and is eaten as are the other vegetables served with that course.

2—At a formal high noon wedding, the groom wears formal day clothes: cutaway coat and dark striped trousers. A [illegible] is not [illegible] informal [illegible]—never before 6:30 or 7 o'clock in the evening. This is true whether the wedding is a church or house wedding.

3—[illegible] for the pleasant [illegible]—and then the [illegible] to have met you, too," to show a mutual pleasure in the meeting.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE D'ALROY

MANY wives have their TROUBLES, and a husband with a roving eye is not the LEAST of them.

Most men have an eye for a PRETTY girl and most wives know it and SHOW it. Yet they should not really MIND because that eye at least showed some DISCERNMENT in picking them for life! When a WIFE sees her husband's eyes roving toward some very ATTRACTIVE girl sometimes she says she doesn't care.

Actually as long as a husband CONFINES his attentions to ALL attractive women, his wife need not be ANXIOUS. He is just stretching his VANITY, he is not looking for TROUBLE. And another thing—even if HE is actually attractive (which in all probability he ISN'T) it is hardly likely that ALL those women could REALLY want him. Hardly likely.

It is only when a man has his optic on ONE single girl (or one MARRIED woman for that matter) that a wife needs to WATCH that she does not get his ear also. To look and THINK at long distance may be quite harmless, but when they get TOGETHER and start to express things—that's DIFFERENT! Then, of course, a wife should take CARE, for the girl may pour in so much honey that some of it might STICK. And when a man starts BELIEVING everything some vain girl amuses herself by telling him, there is going to be a MESS.

Many wives have their troubles and they are not only LITTLE ONES. But a wise wife should not VOICE them. For when a woman has grave DOUBTS regarding her husband it means she must still have still graver doubts regarding HERSELF.

On Dangerous Dust

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association

THE air we breathe [illegible] is more or less laden with dust. This is at times a serious menace to health, especially in towns. It occurs likewise in some extensive [illegible] in which the principles of preventive [illegible] have not been put into practice.

[illegible] to a [illegible] the amount of dust discharged from the chimney of its electric light works.

Not only, said the complainant, was the dust a nuisance as dust, but samples of it had been analyzed by a chemist, who reported that it contained 175 parts of arsenic to every million parts of dust.

The local authority retorted that special appliances were installed in their electric light works to prevent the discharge of dust and therefore it was not likely that the [illegible] from there had on account of the [illegible] arsenic. [illegible]

The [illegible] reported that samples from the flues of the electric light works contained from 7 to 14 parts of arsenious oxide per million parts.

Samples taken from the neighborhood of a refuse destructor contained 100 parts and samples from the flues of neighboring factories [illegible] from [illegible] to [illegible] parts [illegible] anything from 100 to [illegible] [illegible] though the [illegible] of the electric light works [illegible] figure.

[illegible] had been very wet [illegible] the investigation, so [illegible] amount of arsenic [illegible] a million [illegible] had not been an [illegible] substances which might [illegible] to account for such a [illegible] in their smoke.

The question arises—is this a new source of danger to health, or, if not new, at any rate one which has not previously been recognized?

[illegible] recent investigations into [illegible] showed that one [illegible] of a grain per pound was [illegible]. This equals rather less [illegible] parts per million [illegible] in the dust [illegible] dose.

[illegible] dust would [illegible] of a grain of [illegible] food containing [illegible] dust, to take 30 [illegible]

The smallest fatal dose of arsenic [illegible] grains. Half a pound of the [illegible] dust from one of the factories [illegible] fragrant, cheery coffee . . . with the caffeine taken out

IN THOUSANDS of modern homes, Kaffee Hag is always the coffee to serve in the evening. For so many people find that the drug, caffeine, interferes with sleep at night. For them, Kaffee Hag has been a genuine discovery. Real coffee—minus harmful caffeine. Pure, fragrant and cheery! That they can enjoy, no matter if it's midnight . . . and sleep!

Kellogg's* Kaffee Hag is a blend of the world's choicest coffees. We extract 97% of the caffeine (odorless and tasteless) from the green coffee beans—by an exclusive process so that neither flavor nor strength is affected. You can't taste or tell the slightest difference.

All the quick, heartening "kick" of coffee remains. It has never come from caffeine anyhow—but from heat and aromatic coffee oils. For caffeine is slow-acting. It takes two hours for its stimulation to begin. Thus you never notice its absence at mealtime—though, if taken, it may keep you awake hours later.

You must taste Kaffee Hag Coffee to know how delicious it is. You can obtain it from your grocer. In full one-pound cans Ground or in the bean. Hotels and restaurants serve it—and dining-cars.

Send us 10c for a generous sample of Kaffee Hag. You'll find you've solved the "evening coffee problem" the minute it comes to your table. And what a relief from unsatisfying substitutes—this wonderful coffee that no one ever needs to refuse! Drink a second and third cup—it will not keep you awake. Mail the coupon in the left-hand corner for your trial can.

Not a substitute—but REAL COFFEE—minus caffeine

A Story of Mad Moonlight Kisses and a Wonderful Young Girl

CHAPTER 71

MARY EUNICE, in the coupe beside him, leaned forward and amiably rouged her lips. "I'd like a direct answer, if you don't mind."

"Why speak of marriage at midnight, since nothing can be done about it till morning anyhow?"

"I ask because I abhor uncertainty."

"Why, my dear, uncertainty is the very pulse of love. That's why marriage is such a disaster. In removing the [illegible] it [illegible] the romance. Another case where the operation is a success, but the patient dies."

She was used to this light ridicule, and for her own reasons now chose to meet it.

When they reached the house and just as Saxon opened the door, Mary said: "Come in and have a look at the picture Jerry selected for my sitting room. I'm not sure that I like it, but she tells me to try it out as it's quite a gem."

She led the way up the long, old-fashioned stairway. At the landing she turned. In the subdued lamplight she appeared pale. Her emerald green dress—a color that she wore often, gave an unearthly glow to her satin skin and shadowed eyes.

She reached her ha[illegible] ers and with a soft, [illegible] moved into his arms. "You've not been up here. I had you in mind and the things you would like, all the time I was fixing up my rooms. You needn't speak in whispers, dear. We're quite alone."

Mary [illegible] a light. The sitting room gave back a mellow radiance like a garden in moon[illegible] and green in the [illegible] on the walls.

They stood [illegible] the picture—[illegible] by one of the [illegible] in the school [illegible] the graceful figures of [illegible] in a pool.

"Do you like it?"

"Very much."

"All that's necessary." Mary [illegible] and with a faint gesture [illegible] her fingers across his palm, she moved to the window. She stood there with her back to him. She had a [illegible] form and her [illegible] went in a large, [illegible] wave.

He was conscious of her charm, conscious of a subtle [illegible] in this [illegible] deserted house. Conscious [illegible] like a spectator.

Mary Leaned Her Head Against Saxon's Shoulder

Without turning, Mary reached out her hand: "Saxon—come here." She leaned her head against his shoulder and pointed down across the trees.

"I used to hate this view."

"Why?"

"It made me so lonely. I was so unsettled and unhappy before you came, Saxon. I didn't dream what it could mean to be really loved." She let her head lie back against his shoulder and she now moved her cheek upward till her lips found and closed on his.

* * *

He remembered the first time she had done this, his warm, thrilled astonishment. His quick, boyish response. But he was used to the [illegible]ness. It left him cold—stirred a sudden impatience.

"Kiss me. That's better. We've had delightful times, Saxon?"

"Yes."

"You'd miss me, wouldn't you?"

"Naturally."

"Yes, after this year that has meant so much to both of us, Saxon, have I meant very much to you?"

"Why the dying gladiator speech, Mary?"

"Answer me, first! Have I meant much to you?"

"As you say, it's been delightful,"

"When you told me [illegible] the way [illegible] you meant it?"

In the [illegible] he couldn't see her face—but her [illegible] and her dreaming manner [illegible] him. It was late and he didn't want the opportunity she seemed offering.

"I always mean what I say while I'm saying it, Mary. I like you and your pictures and this lovely view—but it's a bit late to dilate on all these various charms." He gave her a teasing kiss and moved to the table where his hat lay.

"You're not going, are you?"

"I thought," said he, grinning, "that that would be in order since it's 1 o'clock in the morning."

"One o'clock in the morning isn't exactly [illegible] after [illegible] months—[illegible] tary [illegible] Saxon—do you realize [illegible] forward to [illegible] your plans all this time?"

"Mary, dear—"

"No—" she brushed his hand aside and stood [illegible] on the arm of a chair, her [illegible] downcast.

"Mary—what [illegible] want—did you [illegible] on for tonight?"

"For [illegible]," she answered quietly, "I wanted to get things definitely settled."

She Came Up and With a Smile Took His Hand

"Like what?"

"You and I!" She came up and with a smile took his hand. "Sit down a moment, Saxon—the folks are going to Europe next week. They'll be gone six months. They say I've got to go with them. Father just becomes more and more tyrannical."

"Not exactly a punishment, is it? Nice sea voyage and tour."

She levelled her eyes to his. They were no longer blue but a shadowed green. She looked at him intently.

"You understand that I'm not going with them."

"Can you get out of it?"

"Of course! When I marry you. That's why I want to get it settled now. We might as well."

"If that's your only escape, Mary, my dear, you'll find yourself in Europe."

"You almost sound as though you meant it!"

Her pallor and her suppressed nervous excitement were lost on him. They had so often talked in [illegible] wise. He now said lightly: "W[illegible] language shall I use so that you'll know I mean it?"

She was sitting very close to him. She now stumped out her cigarette on her slipper. And for a moment remained leaning down, her hands clasped on her knees.

She sat up abruptly: "Give me a cigarette! Never mind, I'll reach." She slipped her hand to his vest pocket, felt about.

He laughed. "Take your hands out of my pockets and ask for what you want."

Slowly she withdrew her hand—smiled. After a weighty moment [illegible] her [illegible] for the cigarette he [illegible] "Then you think I'll have to go to Europe with them, Saxon?"

"I [illegible], dear Mary."

[illegible] intensifying. "It is one thing to deny with words and another to accept with [illegible]. For the past eight months [illegible] tacitly accepted our engagement."

"How Mary?"

"So much so that everyone is [illegible] about it."

"And I'm responsible for that? In what way did I accept an engagement? I've not concealed my intentions. They [illegible] apparent. In the past two years I've not once contemplated marriage nor given anyone reason to think that I would."

"You never intended to marry me?"

"Is it a surprise to you, Mary?"

"Then it's all off between us?"

"It was never on."

To Clean Kid Gloves

Kid gloves can be cleaned with a little warm milk and soap. Put the gloves on the hands, dip a piece of clean flannel in the warm milk, then rub it on the soap. Gently clean the soiled glove with this, changing the flannel as it gets dirty. Let the gloves dry, and then rub them with a soft clean duster.

Three-Minute Trips

By TEMPLE MANNING.

THERE is at least one place in the world where the primitive savages have a strong hold where so far, the missionary has been unavailing. The Solomon Islands, particularly Malaita island, are the home of tribes of head hunting aborigines, with at least cannibalistic tendencies.

These savages are strong, beautifully proportioned people, tall and vigorous. All sickly and weakly children are killed. Indeed, all weakness is frowned upon.

Although, as a general rule, a stop has been put to head hunting and cannibalism, there is a spasmodic recurrence, which, however, is easily put down. Since, however, for centuries the savages have followed their more natural tendencies, it is to be expected that every now and then they should break out. For the "hallmark of the warrior," and the possession of an enemy's head is the more heads he has earned the greater he is in the eyes of his fellow tribesmen.

A double row of islands constitutes the Solomon group. All of them are volcanic and mountainous. There are seven large and a great number of small islands. Many of them are under a British protectorate. The most important of the islands are Malaita, San Cristoval, Ysabel, Guadalcanal and Choiseul.

Who's Who and What of It

This is Alexander X. Pinchpenny, who has been brought here by the Restaurant Men's Association to explain the campaign for the conservation of strawberries. In order to prevent needless waste, Pinchpenny will endeavor to get the restaurant men to sign a pledge to restrict all orders of short cake this season to one-quarter of a berry each. It is said that the restaurant men have unanimously agreed to sign up, and dozens of them were reported hurrying to the post office yesterday to fill their fountain pens. The restaurant men hope, in this way, to release thousands of carloads of strawberries to the poor. There will be no reduction in short cake prices because of the earthquake in Japan two years ago.

She gave his leg a bite.
He socked again—and it was then
She heard the singing birds.
Oh, 'twas a fearful riot!
But in a moment's quiet
The weeping woman wailed these woeful words:
(Chorus)
Don't strike me with your fist love—
That tells of cooling passion;
Time was when you have kissed, love,
In quite another fashion.
How sad it is to know, dear,
That all your love is dead!
Your fist work proves it so, dear—
Proves it too well; for, oh, dear,
You used a club the first year we were wed!

Rise and fall of courtesy in these United States is worthy of considerable study.

For instance, hospitals have developed the technique of rudeness to an unbelievable point, while gas station attendants act like gentlemen.

Movie ushers carry politeness to a point of exasperation, while hotel clerks assume an attitude of belligerence.

And so on—

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

LONG honeymoons are becoming less and less popular; they are so apt to run right into the divorce, these speedy days.

We talk more about love nowadays, and know less about it, discuss it more seriously, and treat it more lightly, than in any age since the world began.

The best way to celebrate your marriage, after a few years, is to forget it—and pretend you are still in love with each other.

Alas, life lasts such a little while! It is like a drifting cloud, the flight of birds, a flash, the contents of your weekly pay envelope, a modern man's love.

If any woman actually looked like the drawings in the fashion magazine or the figures in the shop windows, she would rush right to a beauty surgeon and have herself re-hauled.

Bachelors no longer get much thrill out of life. It has reached the point where a man has to be married to one woman in order to extract any kick out of making love to another.

An unhappy marriage is the poison gas which chokes out all a man's ambitions; but it takes the morphia of a happy marriage to deaden a woman's pep and lull her aspirations to sleep.

The Age of Discretion is that at which a woman's "symptoms," her weight and her diet list absorb and excite her more than the thought of any man's kiss.

"Get your man"—and then watch the others line up at the box office.

Are You Run Down, Weak, Nervous?

To have plenty of firm flesh and the ability to do a big day's work and feel "like a two-year old" at night, you must eat three good meals a day, relish your food and properly digest it. If you can't eat, can't sleep, can't work, just take a teaspoonful of Tanlac before meals.

Mr. Stephen Vitale, of 127 Springdale Ave., Meriden, Conn., says: "I was a weak, thin, puny boy and grew up to manhood in that condition. But Tanlac fixed me up. It increased my appetite and made my stomach all over so I could digest everything. I gained 25 lbs."

Tanlac is wonderful for indigestion and constipation—gas, pains, nausea, dizziness and headaches. It brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, and gain strength and weight. It contains no mineral drugs; it is made of roots, barks and herbs, nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist. Your money back if it doesn't help.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

HERE'S the way a house is made; stately setting, light and shade, trees to give a background green, velvet sward to lie between. Skillful workers then to raise walls and roof that all must praise; well-proportioned, nobly lined, by an artist's hand designed; rooms where every care is spent that the inmates be content, every ease and comfort planned by a practiced, lavish hand. Here's the way a home is made, city lot or forest glade, this one thought in view always: here is refuge for all ways, be they dark or be they bright; 'round this hearth lies our delight, ours to feel here joy and woe as the changeful seasons go! Joys made greater, griefs made less by love's tender watchfulness. City lot or forest glade, here's the way a home is made!

CORRECTING FAULTS

By L. Lamar Matthews.

ABOUT two weeks ago I heard the father of two boys say: "I believe Jack is going to be a doctor; but I don't think Joe will take to education."

I wondered how he knew; for at that time Joe was only six years old. He was an active, energetic, thoughtless youngster who said frankly that he hated school; but that did not fix his entire future.

Since that time, I have heard various members of that family make similar remarks. "Joe will never take to education," is the theme of their comment. Recently Joe's aunt said:

"I don't think Joe will take to education. He will probably turn out to be——"

And thereupon I stopped her.

"He certainly will NOT take to education if the whole family continues to say so in his presence. For two years I have been hearing about Jack's bright future and Joe's hopeless outlook. The boys themselves have heard those statements until they believe them. The family expects good reports of Jack and he brings them home. The family expects nothing of Joe and he doesn't disappoint them. What makes you think that Joe will never take to education?"

Then the aunt laughed. "Well, for no reason at all," she answered, "except that I have heard that fact stated so often I thought, of course, it must be so."

And for the same reason Joe thinks it must be so. Few parents realize the force and power of oft-repeated statements.

Sometimes when your little Sarah is not very well and is irritable and cross, you begin saying.

"Sarah is so spiteful and quarrelsome, nobody can love her."

That remark is intended as a correction of Sarah's fault; but more often than otherwise it only makes her more disagreeable. Another member of the household takes up the refrain and every now and then somebody tells Sarah that she is spiteful and quarrelsome. And before long the traits of spitefulness and quarrelsomeness take root in the child's nature.

"I can't believe anything you tell me," says William's father; "you're such a liar."

"Now, William, tell me the truth," says his mother, "you are not a truthful boy, and if you keep on telling stories nobody will ever believe you."

If William hears that statement often enough he will accept it as a hard and fixed condition.

If your child has a particular fault or weakness, you naturally try to correct the shortcoming; but you are most unwise to dwell upon it.

A funny little woman I know said she found herself almost despising her husband; so she began saying over and over, day after day:

"I love John. I love John. I love John."

The words took such a hold upon her mind that she became really fond of her sorry husband again—so she says.

Repetition has a peculiar effect upon the mind.

It is this matter of repetition that makes advertising the power that it is.

It is repetition of the same thought in songs, in speeches, in plays that plants patriotism in the heart of a child.

It is doing the same thing over and over again that creates habit. Saying the same thing over and over creates a sort of thought-habit.

AVOID DIZZY SPELLS

Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous backwash of constipation which often causes dizzy spells. For 20 years, Dr. F. M. Edwards gave his patients, in place of calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Known by their olive color. They free the system of poisons that ravage health, energy, beauty.

You need never have sallow complexion, dull eyes, coated tongue, throbbing headaches—all signs that your bowels are clogged, liver is torpid. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. They act smoothly and without griping. . . How much better you feel and look! Everywhere wise men and women who know the value of good health take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

THERE is nothing that has ever taken the place of Bayer Aspirin as an antidote for pain. Safe, or physicians wouldn't use it, and endorse its use by others. Sure, or several million users would have turned to something else. But get real Bayer Aspirin (at any drugstore) with Bayer on the box, and the word genuine printed in red:

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

10,000,000 SHARE DAYS FORESEEN

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

J. E. Van Dyke of the Financial Press of New York tells me he expects 10,000,000-share days on the big stock exchange. He proposes that members of all the stock exchanges in the United States, either collectively or individually, engage in a campaign to educate the public in the intrinsic values of the securities which are daily traded in on the various exchanges and to build up their confidence in the substantial qualities of these securieies.

* * *

The Financial Press of New York is the publisher of the Investor's pocket manual, a 336-page monthly investment booklet which is widely distributed by the representative stock and bond brokerage firms in the United States to their customer clientele giving high and low price records, etc., on 32 of the recognized stocks exchanges, curb and commodity markets in the United States and Canada. Every monthly issue of the Investor's Pocket Manual contains the latest earnings, price records, dividends and changes in the finances of the leading railroad, industrial, public utility, oil and mining corporations in a readily understandable way.

* * *

Md. Van Dyke expresses the belief that there are still many thousands of individuals in this prosperous country who have not acquired the habit of investing in the securities of our substantial and well-managed corporations for the simple reason that they do not know how or where to invest their surplus funds.

* * *

By using the advertising columns of the newspapers on a big scale and by distributing liberally such simple and unbiased records as contained in the Investor's Pocket Manual, the New York stock exchange, and likewise the stock exchanges in other cities, could disabuse the public mind of any erroneous impression that the stock exchanges are merely markets for speculation instead of legitimate institutions for the purchase of seasoned securities for investment.

HARVARD SEES LOANS CHECK

Harvard Economic Society in its current weekly letter says:

"Federal reserve operations clearly point to a policy of checking the further flow of funds into collateral loans. Even before the advance in rediscount rates at Boston and Chicago, the demand for funds for both speculative and commercial purposes, combined with a continued outflow of gold, had led to higher money rates—rates probably high enough to prevent a general advance in stock prices.

"The further rise of money which may be expected to follow the increase of rediscount rates will probably lead to a readjustment of stock prices, especially in the case of stocks that have risen to levels not justified by immediate prospects.

"We have repeatedly called attention to the likelihood of such readjustment, and have also pointed out that while the process may bring substantial changes in stock prices and bond yields, liquidation will presently run its course and be followed by easier money during the summer. Fortunately the country does not face a condition of commodity, speculation and the forced liquidation of swollen inventories."

'BIG TEN' ARE UNDISTURBED, SAYS FORBES

New York, April 23—This much I am in a position to say: The "Big Ten," as the group of powerful bull leaders has been called by "Wall Street" have not been stampeded into becoming bears by the increase in the Federal Reserve rediscount rate at Chicago and Boston.

B. C. Forbes

The New York newspapers have published lengthy circumstantial reports about a farewell dinner to W. C. Durant on the eve of his sailing for Europe and have indulged in much conjecture as to the speches then made and the plans then hatched. The unromantic facts are that Durant was unable to attend, that there were no speches, and that no plan or program was drawn up by those who did attend the entirely informal dinner party.

The very definite impression gathered from conversation with those who attended was that the action of the Federal Reserve authorities has not caused any drastic reversal of judgment as to the outlook for the stocks of America's strongest, most progressive, best-mannered corporations.

* * *

As I talked with one after another of these "bull leaders," I could not keep my mind from going back to February-March two years ago. We had been hearing before then exactly the same line of argument as is now presented with great confidence. Read what Durant said, as he sailed away, regarding the expansion and the unprecedented advance in the stock market:

"What are the causes and who is responsible?

"As to the causes, my answer is: The changed conditions due to the wonderful prosperity of the country; the enormous wealth accumulated since the war; the fact that the United States is now the money centre of the world; the confidence in American institutions by almost every nation on earth, who are large buyers of our securities, giving us an international instead of a national market, and, lastly—and in my opinion the most important—the purchase of our high grade securities in tremendous volume by investment companies and investment trusts, many of which are operating most successfully."

But all our unmatched national wealth, all our industrial expansion, all our tremendous stock of gold, all our increase in the number of security buyers, did not prevent the stock market from collapsing most violently twenty-six months ago. That, of course, is not the slightest guarantee that the market will break violently at this time. However, in view of the prevailing exuberance and the tendency to conclude that nothing can possibly stop the dizzy rise in stocks, it may be well to recall to mind what did happen then.

Awning Fire at Hospital

A still alarm for a fire at the Trumbull Private Hospital at 68 Allerton st., Brookline, was for an awning on the first floor of the building, which caused a damage of $75. The fire is alleged to have started by some person throwing a lighted cigarette out the window.

birthday by inaugurating great public works.

One of his birthday presents to the great city will be the finest airport in the world.

This country, 2529 years younger than Rome and ten times as rich as Italy, has two of its greatest cities, New York on the Atlantic, Los Angeles on the Pacific with no airport worthy of mention. We ought to find a Mussolini.

The small monoplane that carried Capt. Wilkins over the North Pole weighs only 1650 pounds, goes 135 miles an hour, and was created by Allen Lougheed. The load carried weighed as much as the plane.

Similar powerful little machines will soon be the pride of many young fliers.

Captain Wilkins deserved success. He smashed five planes, in previous efforts to conquer the pole. Australia, his fatherland, offered him the job of air minister, but he prefers work more dangerous. He was a newspaper man in the Balkan War, an aviator in the World War and went with Shackleton on the Antarctic expedition that cost Shackleton his life.

George Bernard Shaw offers Socialism as a remedy for war, poverty, disease, marriage troubles, drunkenness and other social evils. His "The Intelligent Women's Guide to Socialism and Capitalism," tells about it.

Socialism, Shaw brand, would facilitate divorce. Any married woman could walk out, free as air, if she wanted to. And that, says Shaw, would make marriage permanent, and happier. Husbands would live in dread of finding the lady gone, and behave.

There would be no alimony, for that is blackmail, says Shaw.

All amusing. But Mr. Shaw's ideas would not work in the Congo, where the native crouches beside his decaying rhinoceros until his stomach is distended, then goes some place to sleep it off.

And they won't work in our civilization only a few thousand years from the Congo stage.

Laws, socialistic, plutocratic, or otherwise, do not change human beings fundamentally. They only reflect human beings as they are. Not Socialism, but fifty thousand years of work and disappointments are needed to do the things enumerated by Shaw. Discussion and suggestions, even foolish ones, are useful, however. Any hypothesis is better than none.

Radio Dialog

NEW RADIO PROPOSAL

The radio industry, as represented by the Radio Manufacturers Association, the Federated Radio Trades Association, and the National Association of Broadcasters today placed in the hands of the Radio Commission at Washington an elaborate scheme of reallocations of existing wave lengths and power assignments to conform with the recently passed radio equalization bill.

COMMISSION STORM CENTER

For weeks past, bitter controversy has raged in radio circles, with the recently confirmed radio commission as storm center. The commission has had considerable to say regarding the radio bill, both during its preparation and enactment, and since its passage. In the past four weeks, broadcasters throughout the country have lost much sleep, worrying as to the fate of their stations. Letters, warning stations of impending summary removal from the air have issued from the Commission. Through the whole complicated proceedings, they have manifest a disposition to strengthen the position of the high-powered stations at the expense of the smaller stations.

FIVE ZONES

The scheme proposed today by the radio industry would divide the nation's total station allotment of licenses and power into five equal parts, granting one-fifth to each of the five zones into which the country has been divided.

STATIONS IN THREE CLASSES

The stations of the United States would be classified in three groups, A, B and C. This would give Group C, comprising the high-powered stations, clear channels, without conflict on their wavelength anywhere in the nation.

Class B stations would be known as regional stations, and would have power allotments of 500 to 1000 watts. Class A stations would be local, and of 100 watts power rating. Obviously the lower-powered stations would each be assigned individual wavelengths used by other low power stations in other parts of the country.

SMALL STATIONS SUFFER

The ordinary observer sees approaching difficulties in this solution, which is only slightly different from proposals made last week by the commission itself. Small stations are today suffering from interference, not so much from one another as from overlapping by high-power stations or nearby wave-lengths. If the commission grants more high-power licenses, and they are spread all over the spectrum as contemplated, obviously the small local stations sandwiched in between are going to suffer even more.

RADIO ILLS NEEDLESS

It is safe to state that three-quarters of the present interference, heterodyning and other radio ills, can be eliminated by strict enforcement of rules already established by the Radio Commission and supposedly being enforced by local supervisors. Theoretically, all existing stations can operate on their present assigned frequencies without molestation. Practically, however, very few stations are free from disagreeable interference.

SIMPLE WAVE CONTROL

The situation holds peculiar irony in that the more faithfully a station adheres to federal regulations, the more it suffers from interference by those who flout the law. If the Radio Commission should see fit to insist that every station be equipped with crystal control or at least a crystal wave meter, tested by the U. S. Bureau of Standards, there would be an element of peace in the air.

CHAIN PROGRAMS HOG AIR

One of the greatest difficulties is the chain broadcast, with nightly programs going into the air on from 15 to 50 separate channels. Common sense would indicate that chain programs could all just as effectively go out on a uniform wave length. The reason it is not done is that such procedure would require careful synchronization. Consequently, the cry is raised that single channels for chain programs are an engineering impossibility. Far more difficult and hopeless problems than this have been solved in radio.

HIGH POWER HURTS

Another situation which is difficult for the lay listener to understand is the insistence on high power by key stations of the various chains. It does not require high power to put out a chain program. It can be done just as successfully on 50 watts as on 50,000. The key station of a chain does not need to broadcast at all, as a matter of fact, except incidentally, and for the edification or annoyance of listeners in its immediate zone. If the super-power stations can successfully cover the country with their own broadcasts, they do not need the chain to carry their voice further, and conversely, if the chain carries their programs to the ends of the land as they claim, then they do not need to duplicate this with their own antenna output. The net effect of superpower stations is to shut out all other stations in their own neighborhood and to mar the programs of distant local stations, which are frequently of far greater interest to the community than the average superpower studio program.

OLIVE BORDEN TO BE STARRED IN NEW FILM

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

LOS ANGELES, April 23—Olive Borden, the flashing, dark-eyed ingenue who romped through so many Fox pictures, is about to make a picture for Columbia Pictures Corporation. This is interesting news, since Miss Olive hasn't faced a camera in months. Not since she walked out of the Fox studios after a rumored battle on the salary question.

Come to think of it, Olive hasn't been headlined for any company but Fox. She plays the lead in "Caught in the Whirpool," a Columbia melodrama based on a true story.

John Boles, who came west with Gloria Swanson as her leading man, and since that time has probably played as many engagements as any young juvenile, has the role opposite Miss Borden.

* * *

IF June Collyer fails to click with the box office, then she just isn't star material. Fox is doing everything to give her a chance. Although she has only been in Hollywood a scant year, or perhaps less, she has already been picked and chosen for some of Fox's best stories.

"Me Gangster," by Charles Francis Coe, is one of them. She plays the lead with Raoul Walsh directing. Miss Collyer looks very much like Mary Astor, and is an exceedingly pretty girl.

TRAVEL NOTES: Our cosmopolite Hollywoodians continue to patronize Mr. Pullman. Carl Laemmle, Sr., has gone to Hot Springs, Ark., for the baths. Hobart Henley departed for Europe. Mary Duncan expects to spend a month in Europe as soon as she finishes "Four Devils." Mr and Mrs. Ernst Lubitsch are sailing in a few weeks. They will visit Russia as well as Germany and Italy.

The Monte Blues, the Douglas Fairbanks and the King Vidors are already on their way to the other side—or at least on the first lap of their journey and Mrs. John Roberston leaves in a few days to join her husband.

I WONDER what will happen to William De Mille under the new arrangement where Cecil De Mille will probably only direct his own productions. William De Mille is one of the really good directors in the business. Give him the right story and he will turn out films that will make any producer proud. I'd like to see some producer with enough courage let him pick out his own story and do a picture his way. By the bye, I hear excellent reports of "Tenth Avenue," his last picture.

* * *

THE craze for underworld is continuing. Roland West, who has been working for some time on "The Purple Mask," a costume melodrama, has put aside his year's work to concentrate on a crook play. He will make "The Night Stick," which has been purchased by United Artists.

SPANISH FLIER PLANS FLIGHT AROUND WORLD

New York, April 23 (AP)—A Spanish flier who already has made his way into aviation's hall of fame was in New York today to make preparations for a projected round-the-world flight this summer, starting and ending at Seville, Spain. He is Julio Ruiz de Alda, co-pilot of the Ne Plus Ultra, which in 1926 was the first plane to make the flight from Seville to Buenos Aires.

He plans to establish a base near Unalaska, obtain meteorological data, and make arrangements for his reception at various points. He plans to leave Seville Aug. 1 in a hydro-monoplane now being constructed by the Spanish government.

WALKER MAY NOMINATE SMITH AT CONVENTION

New York, April 23 (AP)—The New York Times said today that Mayor Walker had been tentatively selected to nominate Governor Smith for the presidency at the Democratic National Convention.

Friends of the Governor have become convinced that Walker is so popular with the Democrats of the nation that his selection to make the nominating speech would be wise, the Times adds.

HUNDREDS DELAYED BY "L" MISHAP IN DORCHESTER

Cable trouble in a block signal near Dickens st. of the Dorchester rapid transit system delayed hundreds in reaching their offices and shops on time today. Trains were flagged by the signal. Between 7:02 and 7:30 a. m. trains were running on a six-minute headway instead of the usual three-minute schedule. Dickens st. is between the Savin Hill and Fields Corner stations.

FOREIGN WAR VETS PLAN POPPY DRIVE

Springfield, April 23—A poppy, picked last year in Belleau Woods Cemetery by Dr. John L. Baker of this city, will be pinned on President Coolidge the latter part of May as the official start of the annual poppy drive of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

412,825 NEW CARS IS OUTPUT FOR MARCH

Washington, April 23—Motor vehicle production in the U. S. showed a substantial gain in March over February, 1928, and March, 1927, according to the Department of Commerce. March, 1928, production was 412,825 cars; February, 323,514, and March, last year, 394,443.

AMERICANS ARE HELD CAPTIVE BY SANDINO

New York, April 23 (AP)—A message sent to a mining company here from Nicaragua indicated today that four American employes and one British were prisoners of the rebel leader, Augustino Sandino. Word received by the owners of La Luz, an American gold mine in the Department of Prinzapolca, Nicaragua, told of a raid on the mine by the rebels and the capture of prisoners.

J. Gilmore Fletcher, president of the La Luz & Los Angeles Mining Company, which operates the mine, received this message:

"On the 12th Sandino raided La Luz, taking all the gold, money, merchandise, animals, also Marshall and all employes prisoners."

"Marshall" was stated here to be George B. Marshall of New York, assistant superintendent of the mine. Other Americans at the mine, according to records here, were: L. B. Milbery of Woodsville, N. H.; Roy Burley and P. Peterson, addresses not recorded. Harry J. Amphlett, the superintendent, a British subject, was also thought to have been at the mine at the time of the attack. About 100 Indians also were employed at La Luz.

The message was believed to have been sent by Indian runner from the mine to Puerta Cabezas, which would take six days. From there it was transmitted by the private wireless station of the Standard Fruit & Steamship Company to the United States.

CALLS FOR ACTION NOW ON GREAT LAKES CHANNELS

Washington, April 23 (AP)—Consideration of the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes waterway problems as a unit would tie up Great Lakes improvement work indefinitely, Chairman Dempsey of the House Rivers and Harbors committee, declared today in a digest of recent correspondence on the subject between the State Department and the Canadian government.

He contended the channels of the Great Lakes should be deepened without delay and said the committee had unanimously passed a resolution asking the engineers to report on the project as soon as possible.

1 DEAD, 3 DYING AND 27 HURT IN CHURCH CRASH

Camden, N. J., April 23 (AP)—One man is dead, three women are near death and 27 other persons are in local hospitals following the collapse of a wooden balcony in the Zion Methodist Episcopal Church. All are negroes.

The crash came five minutes before what was to be the final adjournment of the annual conference of the Wesley African Methodist Church of New Jersey. Two hundred persons were in the balcony and 300 were on the floor.

Hops Off for Australia

Lympne, Kent, England, April 23 (AP)—Another solo flight for Sydney, Australia, started here today when Wing Commander E. R. Manning took off on a route which led to Marseilles, Corsica, Sardinia, Tunis, and then along the usual air pathway to Australia. Commander Manning hopes to fly 1,000 miles daily.

KLAN FINANCES REVEALED BY STEPHENSON

In this, the final installment of the dramatic deposition of D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan of Indiana, is told of how the income of the organization in one state aggregated $20,000,000 over seven years, of how, in other states, members of the organization boasted of burning men at the stake, of floggings, of cutting off the ears of victims, and of branding others with acid and red hot irons.

(Copyright, 1928, by the Boston Evening American and International News Service. Reproduction in Whole or Part Absolutely Prohibited.)

Chicago, Ill., April 23—This is the close of a document intended by D. C Stephenson to be a revelation to the American people of the activities of the most discussed secret order in the history of the Nation.

Q.—Based upon personal knowledge and from the records which you kept and have been in your possession, how much money was paid into the Klan treasury in Pennsylvania? A.—I should judge approximately $20,000,000.

Q.—Could you give us a more detailed statement for the benefit of the court and the defendants? A.—There were approximately 300,000 Klansmen in Pennsylvania at the peak. At $10 per hand would be $3,000,000. They paid $6 each for robes—will say they paid $5, to be conservative. That is $1,500,000. By doing this it will eliminate those who possibly did not buy robes. That would probably be a total of $1,500,000.

Then they paid $6 per year dues, that is $1,800,000. Extended over a period of seven years at $6 per man would be $18,000,000. Then there was probably a drift membership of an additional 100,000 members. That is to say, as some dropped out others came in, which would be $1,000,000 more. The robes of those and the women's organization would probably run the total amount in excess of the estimated figures of $20,000,000.

NONE FOR CHARITY

Q.—Describe the disbursement of the first $10 taken into the Klan. A.—In the organization period prior to the time when the Klan is given a charter $4 of the original $10 is retained by the local organizer, referred to as a Kleagle. One dollar is given to the man who has charge of the State organization. He is described as the King Kleagle. The other $5 goes to Evans and his corporation. After the time the Klan has a charter the disbursement is practically the same, except that it goes to other individuals.

Q.—Of this $20,000,000 that has been taken in by the Klan in Pennsylvania from its members, was there any portion of it used for charity and benevolence such as is set forth and prescribed by the Atlantic, Georgia, corporation? A.—None of the funds paid into the Klan in the sum heretofore described were ever used for benevolent, social or eleemosynary purpose. If they had been thus used I would have known about it in my official position.

Q.—Have you any knowledge of any violence authorized and directed by the plaintiff corporation? A.—They told me on a number of occasions of instances where they took colored men in Dallas, Texas, out and burned them at the stake, one of whom they burned alive. Another one they cut his ears off. Another one they branded K. K. K. across his forehead with either hot iron or acid. These they not only told me about but bragged about them and boasted of them.

CAUSED RIOTS

There was a riot at Perth Amboy, N. J., in the early spring of 1923 or in the summer of 1923, I have forgotten the exact date, in which a number of Klansmen were beaten up by the police officers and anti-Klan elements. That riot was incited by the indiscreet conduct of five men sent to Perth Amboy for the purpose of provoking a riot.

Later I accused them of it after I had investigated it and they admitted it and said the purpose was to cause some killings, at least get some men beaten and maimed and thereby create the impression the anti-klan elements were persecuting those who were eligible for membership in the Klan.

Q.—What do you know about the riot at Mer Rouge, Louisiana; Herrin, Illinois; Carnegie, Pa.; Niles, Ohio, and Lowell, Mass., and other states, including the States of Indiana and Wisconsin. A.—I made an investigation of the Carnegie riot and know about that. I have previously testified in this deposition as to what occurred at the Carnegie riots. I don't know what occurred at Lowell, although had charge of the state when it happened. If there have been riots at Lowell I never heard of them.

The riot at South Bend, Indiana, which is one of those widely advertised by the Klan, is one through which I went personally and it consisted of a few young chaps from Notre Dame University coming down to the klan headquarters with a couple of basketfuls of perfectly sound, good potatoes and in a spirit of what I regarded as youthful deviltry they proceeded to throw these potatoes recklessly at the headquarters of the Klan. It was the conduct of irresponsible youngsters who were giving vent to some expressions of restrained youth.

The Carnegie riot was a brutal, terrible thing, where the klansmen marched in defiance of civil authority. I am not familiar with the Lillie or Bristol riot. The Herrin, Ill., affair was a killing between some klan gunmen on the one side and on the other side by a group of men who were reluctant to give up a lucrative bootleg industry.

PLANNED KLAN CHURCH

Q.—What was the purpose of having these riots? A.—They repeatedly said to me that wherever violence could be provoked and the impression created that the klan was being persecuted, it would have a tendency to stimulate the recruiting of members.

Q.—I spoke to you in reference to the Carnegie riot. A.—Yes, the statement was made at Carnegie that the klansmen there killed would result in 25,000 new members being added to the organization. Someone asked if the death of klansmen had no more significance than that.

Q.—What knowledge, if any, have you of the klan annexing the church? A.—Evans told me on a number of occasions that it was his intention to break up the variety of Protestant churches that existed and make one klan church, and through the activity of that klan-dominated or klan-made church to control the electorate and through the electorate control the republic, and to exalt the klan to indeed a place of dictatorship that would make it in fact as well as in theory the invisible empire of the United States.

Baby of Three Cuts Teeth on Pipe and Smokes Cigars

Seattle, Wash., April 23 (AP)—Having developed into an ardent cigar smoker at the age of three, Freddie Riggs, Seattle youngster, has become the subject of much speculation among doctors.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Ralph Riggs, explained that when Freddie was 10 months old he was underdeveloped and refused to eat until he chewed on a pipe. He cut hi teeth on the same pipe.

When he was a year old he began to chew and smoke cigars. Efforts to make him quit tobacco have resulted in his stopping eating. He now has one cigar every night.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE ☆ ☆ BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN ☆ ☆ BOSTON, APRIL 23, 1928

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON:
1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND:
1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Fuller for Hoover

And Against the Nomination of Presidents "In a Back Room at 2 A. M."

Urging his fellow-Republicans to declare their preference for Hoover in tomorrow's primary, Governor Fuller prints as an advertisement today the Saturday Evening Post article, "Hoover—a National Asset," which appeared in these columns on Saturday as an editorial.

The Fuller advertisement, following so swiftly upon President Coolidge's request to the people of his home State to disregard the "draft" talk, opens wide the way to every member of the Grand Old Party who wants to make certain that the nomination at Kansas City will not be made at 2 o'clock in the morning by the "gang in the back room."

Secretary Hoover's opponents within his party are mainly the VERY practical politicians, who complain that he will not "play" with them.

What they mean is that they cannot HANDLE him.

Only two of the eight Massachusetts candidates for places among the Republican Big Eight—the delegates-at-large—are known to be in favor of Hoover's nomination.

These two are Senator Gillett and the Rev. Frederick L. Anderson.

Only ONE is PLEDGED to Hoover.

That one is DR. ANDERSON.

Every Republican who favors the nomination of the Secretary of Commerce should go to the polls tomorrow, write the name of Hoover in the space he will find ruled off for the purpose and VOTE FOR ANDERSON AND GILLETT.

He must be sure NOT to vote for more than seven of the eight candidates for delegate-at-large. There has been some talk of the use of "bullets." That is, of voting for Dr. Anderson only, and letting the "slate" take its chances. For himself, Dr. Anderson has stated his belief that former Senator William M. Butler should have a place on the delegation because of his position as Chairman of the National Committee and that—because of that position—Mr. Butler has acted fairly and wisely in not naming his preference for the nomination.

A great opportunity lies before the Massachusetts Republicans. By piling up mountain of votes for Hoover tomorrow they will give new life to the Hoover movement, influence primaries and conventions yet to be held and muzzle, cripple or paralyze the "back-room" boys.

The problem placed before our DEMOCRATIC friends by the preferential primary is not of the same variey. Reports from that camp are all to the effect that Massachusetts is "sewed up" for Smith. Of 105 aspirants for the 72 places in the delegation to Houston all but four or five are "pledged" to the New York Governor.

The Democratic primary, then, is a scramble for tickets to the Smith band-wagon. The Republican primary will be a test of citizenship. Governor Fuller has described it in a paragraph:

> "Unless the people want their candidates beholden to the politicians and interested groups, or picked for them in a back room at 2 o'clock in the morning, then they should interest themselves in throwing the weight of their influence toward nominating men of independence, ability and distinction in the primary."

A Bull Moose "Party"

How to Cross a Maine Lake

Dr. Howard A. Thompson, of Nashua, N. H., is a gentleman we should like to know.

Elected last week to the presidency of the Hillsborough County Fish and Game Protective Association the young doctor confessed to a most unusual ambition:

"Before I die—and I may die doing it—I want to leap from the bank of a lake onto the back of a moose and have him carry me out into the lake. That is the one thing in life I want to do.

"I want to go up on the bank of one of the lakes in the wilderness and have a moving picture man with me, so that if I do not come out of it alive he will have the film to prove that I did it. Then I want to leap down off the cliff squarely on the back of a big bull moose in the lake. Let him carry me out into the lake if he wants or up into the woods. The woods would be much more dangerous and less likely to show for the pictures.

"But what I want is for the moose to swim out into the lake with me on his back. It may be my last look at life, but I would be content to die like that."

We saw the very bull for the purpose last November on Lake Moxie—the name is correct—in what is known as the "upper Kennebec country," of which Bingham may be called the center.

Moxie is nine miles long, but nowhere more than a mile wide. It is easily navigated in canoe or rowboat, which should be a big help to the movie man. Deer are plentiful and if the same big bull moose is not receiving there are bear and bobcats about.

Take the Jackman-Quebec road to The Forks; Lake Moxie station is but six miles further on—over a good road—at the foot of the lake.

It is good to be alive and read that young men still have their dreams. We had supposed that ambitions like this went out ten years ago.

Clem Hawley would like to know a man whose idea of perfect bliss is taking a nap on the back of a bull moose making its way across Lake Moxie. In his younger days, Clem was always up to such didoes. HIS ambition used to be to be photographed blowing peas into a lion's eye while riding in a howdah on the back of the biggest and wildest elephant in Africa.

Mr. Hawley never could find the photographer.

MORALS ARE ALLIED TO MANNERS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

DR. KNIGHT DUNLAP, a Johns Hopkins University psychologist, says in a recent issue of the Journal of General Psychology that public nudity is coming soon and that it won't hurt morals either.

He says it may sound merely facetious, but it is metaphorically and literally true that every time a woman lifts her skirts the moralists shiver.

Some years ago shoulder puffs and baggy sleeves were denounced as indecent and ungodly. People used to shudder over the one-piece bathing suit and bobbed hair, which once was thought to flaunt indecency and threaten the foundations of morality, is now quite common and harmless.

Some years ago putting the hair on top of the head was looked upon with superior disapproval.

As a matter of fact it does not make much difference to morals how much or what part of the body is exposed. What makes the difference is whether or not more is being exposed than you are used to.

Morals are akin to the word mores, which means manners, and somehow morals are very closely allied to manners and customs.

Some wise man said that morality is different beyond the Pyranees, by which he meant that what is moral in one place may be considered immoral in another.

The main thing in morals is to keep on doing as you have been doing.

If a man appeared at a formal dinner function without a necktie and with a Byronnic collar open in front he would shock us, and if he showed up on the golf links or tennis court in a dress suit and stiff shirt he would be equally ridiculous.

As a matter of fact, almost all law is a crystallization of custom. Men do not show as much objection to your doing what is wrong as they object to your doing what you have been not doing all these years.

Christ was not crucified for any crime he had committed except the crime of not keeping step with the Scribes and Pharisees.

The average man soon finds out that it saves wear and tear and useless friction if he yields, for the most part, to custom.

Rest assured that the average woman will retain her decency and modesty, clothes or no clothes.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

MR. EDGAR COLTER is peeved at American newspapers.

"Our journalists should be our greatest national educators," he says. "But instead, they write drivel! They never advance an original opinion. They're a bunch of spineless yes men—" and a lot more.

And unfortunately, most of it is true.

Do our journalists write tripe? They do. And I will tell you why they write tripe.

YOU ARE THE REASON.

Journalists do not like to write tripe. Editors do not like to publish it. Editors and journalists are, as a rule, interesting, original people with stimulating ideas. They would like to share those ideas with you. They would like to hear your opinions in return. Such discussions would be of the greatest value to the writers, to you and to the country at large.

Then why do not newspapers print such discussions?

BECAUSE YOU WON'T LET THEM.

Do you know what happens when a speaker or a writer tries to present some new viewpoint to the American public of 1928? Some viewpoint which is new and radical—a frank discussion of marriage or education, religion, patriotism, or sex, for example. What happens when that viewpoint appears in print? This happens—

YOU RAISE CAIN.

You do not merely disagree with the viewpoint, you do not exchange that lively argument which would be so profitable for all of us. No You act like a bunch of bad sports.

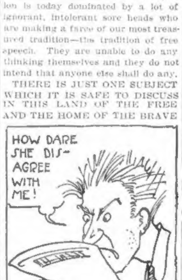
You at once write anonymous letters to the editor and threaten to cancel your subscription. You meet and draw up resolutions condemning the speaker. You yell to high heaven that he has endangered the sanctity of the American home. Why? Because he hasn't agreed with you. That's why.

Perhaps you, individually, do not do these things. But you collectively do them, every day in the week. After which demonstration, does not the editor call in the rash journalist and reward him with kisses and a bonus? Yes, he does NOT! Instead, he gives you what you want.

AND YOU WANT TRIPE!

As a consequence, American opinion is today dominated by a lot of ignorant, intolerant sore heads who are making a farce of our most treasured tradition—the tradition of free speech. They are unable to do any thinking themselves and they do not intend that anyone else shall do any.

THERE IS JUST ONE SUBJECT WHICH IT IS SAFE TO DISCUSS IN THIS LAND OF THE FREE AND THE HOME OF THE BRAVE



HOW DARE SHE DISAGREE WITH ME!
ELSIE—

—AND THAT'S THE WEATHER. And it isn't even safe to do that unless you've got the Chamber of Commerce behind you and the endorsement of the Better Business Association.

No, I'm not writing this because I'm mad. I'm writing this because I believe that you're capable of better things. Take my stuff, for example. You let me get by with murder and you almost never have me fired. But I've trusted you from the beginning. I've felt that you aren't as dumb as some of you act. And I'm quite sure that you'll take care of these boll weevils when you once realize what they're doing to your country's reputation. So I'm telling you. And I'll probably get the can as a result. But it will be worth it.

New York Day by Day

by O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 23—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early out, and met a venerable gentleman wearing a shoulder cape, and no article of dress has such quaint dignity. And so to breakfast with Floyd Gibbons and for a long walk on the lower East Side.

Later to call on a gentleman with whom I used to play marbles, and he is now an astronomer of note, so grave and sedate I felt silly. Lunched with my mother-in-law at Frank Case's inn and had two helpings of the best floating island I ever tasted.

In the evening to give Irvin Cobb an ebony cane purchased abroad, and he seemingly so pleased I wished I had brought him a half dozen. Home to labor, which I have neglected for three days, what with gadding here, there and seeing the plays. So to bed.

ADD-UP-AND-SWOON-NOTE: The telephone bill of a New York hotel guest last week amounted to $1,122. It was paid by an Englishman who called up London six times. He must have been out of his head.

IT IS in the smartest hotels petty deceits are practiced on telephone operators. A favorite is to call a number, get it, wait a while, and call a new number with, "Please ring them again. They didn't answer." The operators, being polite girls, do not dispute the matter, but the added call goes on the bill "allrightie."

AS A night police reporter I accompanied a policeman in a middle western city to a call from a water front boarding house. In a dim-lit hall a frightened landlady was standing over a sprawling figure on the floor. His head was drawn back and his mouth twisted into a leery sardonic grin. Risus sardonicus, medicos call it. His muscles were stiff and hard as a board. It developed he was a boarder, and coming in late had gone to the kitchen and eaten from a bowl on a table. It was a mixture of mush and strychnine to kill rats, carelessly left there. A few nights ago I saw the same landlady, expensively gowned, sitting in a box at a theater. An acquaintance told me she was the wife of a rich New Yorker who sat beside her. A coincidence was that an incident in the play centered around an accidental poisoning by strychnine.

NEARLY all New York's cartoonists are golfers. Many claim their best ideas come while swinging around the course. We had an idea concentration was absolutely necessary to neat golfing. And neat columning consists in writing better paragraphs than this.

THERE is a hush in the tearooms. After the war, tea drinking spread in New York as fire in dry grass. The big hotel dining rooms were filled at the 5 o'clock hour. But in the last few months crowds have dwindled. No one knows why, and few seem to care.

ACTORS are reputed flops in business, and yet a number have stepped out and made a place in the mercantile world. The latest is Wellington Cross, well known on the vaudeville and legitimate stage. He was sent to London about a year ago to manage a chain of shops specializing in beauty preparations. Word comes back to Broadway he has been a whopping success and is to be taken into the firm.

ONE of Broadway's roystering comedians has been on the water wagon for nearly a year. His sudden turn from the cups took place in a theatrical club. He was having a highball when a friend inquired if he had heard the fate of a close friend in Los Angeles. The friend was an actor who received a long prison term as the outcome of a drunken Hollywood brawl. The comedian set down his half raised glass and said he was through with drink for all time. And he has not touched a drop since.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By Leola Allard

JOE McDONAAD of Pee Wee Valley, Kentucky, knows a very old lady who says that she always lives each day as if it were her last day on earth. She has lived to be 90 and has always been happy.

"I don't know how she does it," says Joe, "but if I could do that I know a certain orchestra I'd have follow me around all day."

The 90-year-old lady explained that she thought regrets that made for unhappiness were usually founded on sins of omission. A balm to many an aching conscience is that dear lady.

A smart little girl from Texas, named Flo, says she knows how to keep men from becoming bald, and whether her hair tonic is any good or whether she is so entertaining the men laugh till they get up circulation and their hair just naturally grows hasn't been determined. At any rate she has a thriving business and the men flock to Flo for their weekly hair treatments.

Shelby Worral of Galveston, Tex., married Pat Somerset, labelled "international actor and heart-breaker." The girl filed suit for divorce in Los Angeles after four months of marriage. She says he beat her in San Francisco two days before.

With him so traveled, and with all his knowledge, you'd think he could have thought twice before he lit into a girl from that state. There is only one greater mistake than striking a woman from Texas, and that is striking her in Texas. Things happen immediately when you do.

A lady was getting her shoes shined in a Michigan boulevard hotel in Chicago and she said to the old colored man who was doing a very fine job: "You certainly know how to shine shoes, don't you?"

"Missus," said the old darkey, "I comes from a place where you got to be right or get out. They don't stand no nonsense."

"And where is that?" asked the lady.

"That's Texas," said the darkey. "I certainly loves that Dallas. The hotter it gets the better you feel." It's peculiar, but its just that way.

Summer Vacation

Mr. Coolidge's secretary writes to President West of the State Chamber of Commerce that it will be some time before the President can reach a decision.

After the Black Hills and White Pine Camp, his friends in New England, who number approximately 8,182,000, believe the President and Mrs. Coolidge to be entitled to a vacation "at home."

There may be gold in the Dakota hills but what is that in comparison to the sunshiny days, entrancing nights, cool sea breezes, bracing air, winding trails, beautiful estates, beckoning roads, echoing gorges, boisterous waterfalls, foam-flecked pools, glistening beaches, secluded coves and surf-battered promontories which charm and mystify the visitor to Mount Desert Island?

The invitation to Maine was delivered to the President early in the month by Governor Ralph O. Brewster, who authorizes this newspaper to extend the invitation to all other Americans.

Nowhere in the United States is scenery more varied and charming or Summer more congenial than in Maine.

The latchstring is out. A friendly welcome is assured. Maine invites you all!
